The Democratic Convention Meets in St. Louis

ON THE FIFTH DAY OF NEXT JUNE.

Opinions of Prominent Men as to the Significance of the Committee's Action—St. Louisians Happy.

Washington, February 23.—[Special.]—Although Congressman Scott and the administrationists sustained defeat in the national democratic committee yesterday, they are to night crowned with glorious success. Mr. Scott worked like a Trojan all last night and was up to the time the convention met this sustained like a Trojan all last night and was up to the time the convention met this sustained.

trationists sustained detect in the hational democratic committee yesterday, they are to-night crowned with glorious success. Mr. Scott worked like a Trojan all last night and was up to the time the convention met this morning using all the persuasive powers at his command, which included two cabinet officers' proxies, to induce the delegates to support the administration by reconsidering the date decided upon yesterday, and make it the 5th of June at St. Louis, and he was sucthe 5th of June at St. Louis, and he was successful, although not as he expected, for it was a San Francisco supporter who first joined him, while those for Chicago remained staunch until San Francisco had led off. Barbour and Gorman voted with him for St. Louis, but when they were called upon to sustain the when they were called upon to sustain the administration by reconsidering the date and making it earlier, they and others, still voted for the late convention. Thus, it is evident that these two gentlemen, with a few followers, are opposed to the present administration, although Mr. Cleveland

"SUCH TALK IS NONSENSE." Burnes, of Missouri, in speaking of the political significance. It was the time of the meeting that signified, and in that he saw the administration defeated. To his mind the outlook was anti-Cleveland. Two-thirds of this committee are against Cleveland, he declared, and he expressed the opinion that Mr. Cleveland would not get the nomination. However, he is the only one who has publicly expressed such an opinion, although some others believe it, but in this I do not mean to say that Mr. Cleveland has any decided opposition outside of the few members of the national committee who have shown evidence of dis-satisfaction with his administration, for democrats here, as elsewhere, are almost unanimous for Cleveland, and if he does not refuse to allow his name to go before the convention and that is now considerably discussed, there

WILL PROBABLY NOT BE ANOTHER NAME proposed to head the democratic ticket.

Now, in regard to the selection of St. Louis the opinion is almost unanimous that it is favorable to Mr. Cleveland's renomination. The St. Louisians here say that his policy is highly indorsed by their people, and that the democrats in their state are solid for him.

Since the date of the convention has been ecided upon the ways and means committee have expressed their intention of rushing the tariff bill through as soon as possible in order to have legislation on this subject enacted before the convention. There is now a movement on foot to make General Collins, of Massachusetts, president of the national convention by some of the southern and western memoers, and western being strong hold apon the Irish-Americans. It is evident that either he or Congressman Scott, will preside, and the probability is that there will be a considerable sight over it.

And the Day Changed to June 5th-Proceed-ings of the Committee.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—The national democratic committee met again in secret ses-tion this morning at 10 o'clock.

At the opening of session, Mr. Scott, of Pennsylvania, moved that the current business of balloting for the selection of a city in which the democratic national convention shall be held, he suspended, so that a motion might be made to reconsider the vote, by which July 3d was decided upon as the date for holding the held, be suspended, so that a motion might be made to reconsider the vote, by which July 3d was decided upon as the date for holding the convention.

Points of order were made by several members, when Senator McPherson took the floor and delivered a short but earnest address, in which he urged that there should be no insistance on technicals, and that the only consideration should be the good of the party, and reminding the committee that whatever the attractiveness of the Pacific slope might be, presidential elections hitherto had been determined by the votes of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut. That on account of the proposed reduction of taxation, there would be need of more work than ever before in showing the people that it was for their interest that it should take the form proposed.

After other remarks a vote was 'taken upon Mr. Scott's motion with the following result: 38 for and 24 against.

The motion was declared lost.

Balloting was then resumed for a place for bolding the convention.

The first ballot stood—Chicago, 15; San Francisco, 17; St. Louis, 13; New York 1.

At this point a recess was taken for fifteen minutes, after which Senator Gorman arose to make an appeal to people who, like himself, had voted for San Francisco. He had been of the opinion, as others had, that by going to California, which was a part of the territory acquired by the democratic government, and which owed its birth to the democratic party, political sentiment in favor of democracy could be considerably strengthened. The democratis had carried California at the state election, and the republican majority in Oregon had been reduced and he had believed by holding the convention at San Francisco, the democratis had carried california majority in Oregon had been reduced and he had believed by holding the convention at San Francisco, the democratis and most important members of the party would be unable to attend. For this and other reasons he appealed to the delegates from the Pacific states to yield their preference an

For Cincinnati—Ohio.
Mr. Scott made a motion to reconsider the vote by which July 3d had been fixed as the time for holding the convention.
Messrs. Tarpie, of California; C. S. Thomas, of Colorado; and Barbour, of Virginia, spoke in opposition to the motion, but it prevailed by a vote of twenty-six to nineteen.
Ex-Senator McDonald moved that the date of the convention be changed from July 3d to Tuesday, June 5th.
A motion to amend by substituting June 26th for June 5th was lost.
Senator McDonald's motion was then adopted by a vote of 29 to 17.
The vote by states was as follows:
In fayor of June 5th—Alabama, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Tennessee, Vermont, Wisconsin, Dakota, District of Columbia, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming; Missouri not voting.
All of the other states and territories voted against the motion.
On motion the chairman was directed to appoint a committee of seven, of which he shall be chairman, and the secretary of the committee to be secretary, which committee shall have authority to make all necessary arrangements for holding the convention, and also have charge of the preparation and organization of the canvas until the meeting of the convention. That committee was not announced.
Resolutions of regret were adopted for the deaths of Messrs. Wilson, of Maine, and Thompson, of New York, late members of the committee.

Thompson, of New York, and the Committee.

A call for the convention was agreed upon. It was substantially the same as that of 1884, except in conformity with the action of the last national convention, the territories and District of Columbia were placed on the same footing as states, territories having two delegates each, however, instead of double the representation in congress as in the case of states.

Following is the call:

The national democratic committee, having met in the city of Washington, on the 22d day of February, 1838, has appointed Tuesday, the 5th day of June, next, at noon, as the time, and the chosen city of St. Louis, as the place of holding the national democratic convention. Each state is antitled to representation therein, equal to double the number of its senators and representatives in the congress of the United States, and each territory, and the District of Columbia, have two delegates. All democratic convertaites citizens of the United States, irrespective of past political associations and differences, who can unite with us in an effort for pure, economical and constitutional government, are cordially invited to join us in sending delegates to the convention.

WILLIAM H. BARNEN, Chairman, PERDERICK O. PRINCE, Secretary, National Democratic Committee.
The committee adjourned to meet in St. Louis on Monday, June 4th, 1888.

Louis on Monday, June 4th, 1888.
CONGRATULATIONS TO MR. CLEVELAND.
Mayor Francis, of St. Louis, sent the following telegram to President Cleveland:
"Congratulations to you and the democratic party on the time and location of the convention at St. Louis. It means the light will be made squarely on the principles so clearly, forcibly and courageously enunciated in your message.

The People Cheering and Throwing Up Their Hats.

The People Cheering and Throwing Up Their Hats.

St. Louis, February 23.—The news from Washington that the democratic national committee has selected this place to hold the next democratic national convention was received here with great joy and spread through the city as if by magic. Republicans, as well as democrats, were indescribably happy. The delegation sent to Washington will receive a rousing welcome on their return, and will be given a formal reception. On 'change the news caused real enthusiasm and cheers, hat throwing and hand shaking were indulged in by everybody. In less than an hour after the committee's action the hotels were almost swamped with telegrams from all parts of the country, ordering accommodations for various delegations, and this evening fully one-half of the hotel rooms are engaged. The indications are that there will be a tremendous crowd here from every section of the union.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

An Explanation of the Dynamite Explosion at Duluth.

An Explanation of the Dynamite Explosion at Duluth.

St. Paul, February 23.—A Duluth special gives Foreman Lundberry's account of the dynamite accident there yesterday. He says it was one that would not have happened once in a thousand times.

"We drilled five holes down sixteen feet and put in twenty-six cartridges, blasting them off on Monday. We could not tell about any one hole. The blast went off all right and shook out all rock and blew out all holes except this one. The parties who drilled this hole said they had struck either rotton rock or clay. We supposed that the dynamite had exploded and made a hole in the rock inside. The hole was then cleaned out and eight dynamite cartridges put in and set off. The men asked me before this if I was certain there was no dynamite in the hole, and I told them I was, and as one or two of them seemed airaid, I held the drill while we were cleaning the hole. This second blast tore off about nine feet of rock from the top. Tusday afternoon I started the men to work again cleaning the hole. We went on with the work again yesterday morning, but the men had only got to work when the accident occurred. One of the men holding the drill on the top of the rock asked me about the dynamite in the hole, and I told him I was sure there was none. No man refused to work at the hole. Contractor Fitzpatrick expresses entire confidence in Mr. Ludburg, and excuses him from all blame. Of the injured Andrew Ecklund and Erick Matson died yesterday afternoon, making the fourth death in all. L. Anderson and Charles Matson may also die.

It's Finnegan's Wake.

PRILADELFIEL A. February 23.— The body of the man who, last night, in Camden, N. J., murdered his female attendant, and then committed suicide, was today identified as that of Michael Finnegan, who resided at 713 South Third street, in this city. The murdered woman was Mrs. Amelia Walker, who lived with her husband, a huckster, at 314 South Sixth street, also in this city. Finnegan was a single man, about 36 years of age, and it is said had been intimate with Mrs. Walker for some time. They had beeen carousing together, and the tragedy is supposed to be the result of a jealous quarrel.

A Gorge in Delaware.

Balloting then began and when Georgia was mached. Mr. Walsh rose in his place and stated that he had thus far voted steadily for san Francisco, but he was satisfied that that thy would not be selected. He would, therefore, vote for St. Louis.

Mr. Gorman. in accordance with his remarks, voted for St. Louis and was followed y all others, who had previously voted for Chicago, including Scott and Grubb of Delamare. When Illinois was reached, Judge Goudy thanked the committee for the consideration shown Chicago, but said he was quite with Mrs. Walker for some time. They had been carousing together, and the tragedy is supposed to be the result of a jealous quarrel.

A Gorge in Delaware.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., February 23.—The Delaware river is gorged at this place for the distance of four miles, ice being piled to the height of twenty feet. The river is slowly rising. Cellars and a number of inhabited basements are flooded in the village. Near Barret suspension bridge the wooden breakwater in front of abutments of the bridge has been destroyed by ice, which reaches the top of the piers. Apprehensions are entertained that the gorge may have a disastrous result in this village.

A FORLORN HOPE.

Delegations in the Interest of the Blair Bill.

WITH LITTLE CHANCE OF SUCCESS. Asking Appropriations for Georgia Riv-ers-Springer's "Omnibus" Bill— Other Washington Gossip.

WASHINGTON, February 23.—[Special.]—Delegations from Texas, Alabama and California appeared before the committee on education yesterday in favor of the Blair bill, and on Saturday a delegation from the Virginia legislature (Professor Langston, the colored ex-minister to Liberia,) will appear before them in behalf of the bill. Great pressure is being brought to bear on the committee to rebeing brought to bear on the committee to re-port the bill in order that the house might have an opportunity to vote on it, and it now appears as though the committee will be compelled to report. There is, however, no possi-ble chance for a favorable report the way the bill now stands, but there is a possibility of a favorable report being made on a substitute for the bill. The chances though are in favor of an adverse report.

An effort is being made here by the green backers to get up a sensation over the old re funding act of 1870 to be used for campaign purposes. Some days ago, Mr. Plumb intro-duced a resolution to have an investigation to find out if the house and senate records of that act had been tampered with in order to make it read that the bonds could be redeemed "after thirty years," as it appears at present, instead of "for thirty years," which Mr. Plumb and others claim it should read. The resolution was referred to the judiciary committee and they have examined into it to find that the journals of the senate and house read "for thirty years," but are of the opinion that it was a clerical error as is shown by Mr. Sherman's speech on the subject at the time in the senate. It is believed the purpose of the republicans is to make an at-tack upon the bonds and reduce their valuation on the market, and are trying to establish this to make an attack upon Secretary Fair-child for redeeming bonds at more than their market value. The republicans claim that market value. The republicans claim that putting in the word "after" was wilfully done for the purpose of benefiting the bondholders. If they succeeded in having the act construed as it reads in the records, the bonds will depreciate in value considerably.

THE "OMNBUS" BILL.

By a strict party vote today the house committee on territories agreed to report favorably Chairman Springer's "omnibus" bill, to enable the people of Dakota, Montana, Washington and New Mexico to form constitutions and state governments and to be admitted into the state governments and to be admitted into the union on an equal footing with the original states. In this bill the people of Washington and New Mexico are privileged to change the names of their territories to Tacoma and Mon-tezuma respectively, when admitted to state-hood. The women of Washington are now allowed to vote, and Mr. Kilgore, of Texas, red before the territory con for the purpose of having an amendment added to the bill to allow only male inhabitants over twenty-one years of age to vote on the proposed constitution. The bill states that proposed constitution. The bill states that any person over twenty-one years of age, without designating males, will be allowed, to vote. The republicans opposed the bill on the ground that they wanted Dakota admit-

Chairman Jones was authorized to appoint a committee of ten to act together with three senators named, as the executive committee of the congressional committee. This executive committee in turn was authorized to elect its own chairman, secretary and treasurer. Chairman Jones will report his selections for the executive committee at the next meeting.

SESSION OF THE SENATE.

The Nicaragua Canal—Asking About the Urgency Appropriations, Etc.

Washington, February 23.—Mr. Edmunds asked consent of the senate to take up and consider the bill incorporating the Maratine Canal company, of Nicaragua, stating as a reason for his request that he might be compelled to be absent all the next week, and perhaps the week after, but at the suggestion of Mr. Vest he let the matter go over till to-morrow.

Mr. Vest he let the matter go ver the value row.

Mr. Plumb gave notice that he would next Monday ask consideration for the bill forfeiting all unearned land grants.

On motion of Mr. Dolph, the senate bill to carry into effect the international convention of the 14th of March, 1884, for the protection of submarine cables, was taken up for consideration, read and passed. It simply provides penalties for willful and wrongful injuries to submarine cables.

Mr. Voorhees inquired of the chairman of or submarine cables.

Mr. Voorhees inquired of the chairman of the committee on appropriations as to when the urgency appropriation bill would be reported to the senate, and whether it would contain provisions for judgments of the court of claims later than the lith of January.

Mr. Allison stated in reply that the bill would be reported next week; that (as it came from the house) it contained appropriations for judgments of the court of claims up to the 18th of January, and that the committee would call for a list of such judgments, and treasury adjudications since that time, and would embody them in the bill.

Mr. Voorhees remarked that the statement was very satisfactory.

On motion of Mr. Morrill, the house bill for the purchase of a site, including a building thereon, also for the erection of necessary storehouses for the use of the office of the chief signal officer of the army in Washington, was taken from the calendar and passed (with some verbal amendments).

The bill to provide for an international marine conference for securing greater safety for life and property at sea was passed.

The senate in the morning hour passed bills extending the laws of the United States over the public land strip, and to amend the land act so as to permit foreign governments to acquire property in the District of Columbia, and to authorize the removal of quarantine from Ship Island, Mississippi, and appropriating $450,000 for the purpose.

The senate then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to incorporate the Vashington cable electric railway and passed if after much discussion and several amendments.

HECKING GREAT BRITAIN. ution in the House in Regard to Washington, February 23.—The house was called to order by Mr. Clark, its clerk, who announced the enforced absence of the speaker and on motion of Mr. Milis, of Texas, 8. S. Cox, of New York, was unanimously elected speaker pro tem, amid a round of applause.

Mr. McAdoo, of New Jersey, offered the followine preamble and resolution, which were referred to the committee on foreign affairs. Wheesas, It is stated that the British government has made claim to a considerable portion of valuable territory now and hitherto in the possession of the protests of venezuela, and is, through its agents, at Demarara, in British Guinea, proceeding, without legal or equitable right and, in defance of the protests of venezuela, to exercise dominion over the same and has refused to arbitrate the question of disputed boundaries; and whereas, the United States, has by its settled policy and practice defended the existence and independence of all American countries against Europeau domination and control and is particularly interested in maintaining a republican government and rights in both Americas;

Resolved, That the president be requested to send Ing a spatiolican government and rights in both Americas.

Resofred, That the president be requested to send to the louse, if not incompatible with public interests, all documents and correspondence between this government and the governments of Great Baitsin and Venezuela. or either of them, relating to the question of disputed boundaries between the said British colonies and Venezuela.

The floor was accorded to the committee on public buildings and grounds, and bills were reported from that committee and placed upon the calendar for the erection of buildings at the following points: Kalamazoo, Mich.; Yonkers, N. Y.; Logansport, Ind.; Patterson, N. J.; Newbern, N. C.; Allegheny City, Pa.; Young stown, O.; Houlton, Maine; Atchison, Kau. Hamilton, O.; Akron. O.; Norfolk, Va.; Siour City, fowa; Madison, Ind.; Suspension Bridge, N. Y.; Zanesville, O.; Helena, Montana; Cheyenne, Wyo.; Vicksburg, Miss.; Kansas City, and Evansville, Ind., (marine hospital.) Also to increase the appropriation for the public building at Winona, Minn., to for the public building at windla, ballar, $200,000.

The house then went into committee of the whole, McMillan, of Tennessee, in the chair, for the consideration of the special order.

A bill for a $200,000 building at Lowell,

A bill for a $200,000 building at Lowell, Mass., was passed.

A bill for the erection of a public building at Birmingham, Ala., at an estimated cost of $200,000 wes copposed by Mr. Bland, of Missouri.

Mr. Bankhead, of Alabama, supporting the bill, raised a laugh against Mr. Bland by remarking that so far as he could learn the town in which that gentleman resided was only a wide place in the road, somewhere over in Missouri and suggesting that the men who erected a public building at that place had been paid in silver dollars worth 70 cents on the dollar.

Mr. Weaver of Lowe ichingly advised the

Mr. Weaver, of Iowa, jokingly advised the gentleman from Alabama to withdraw his attack upon the silver dollar if he wanted to get his public building, whereupon Mr. Bankhead expressed his willingness to take every dollar of the money in silver.

The all was agreed to, as were also bills appropriating $150,000 for a building at Duluth, Minn. c $330,000 for Newark, N. J., and for the purchase of additional land at Council Bluff, Iowa.

The committee having risen, the house passed bills agreed to, as well as those coming over from Tuesday for the erection of buildings at allentown and Lancaster, Pa., and for the enlargement of the building at Charleston, West Virginia.

Mr. Bland fought these measures at every point, and as he had not enough followers to order the yeas and nays, and as the speaker pro tem. always succeeded in counting a quorura upon division, the house proceeded with business, without any great delay.

The house, then at 5 o'clock, adjourned.

THEY DISCRIMINATED. Several Railroads Checked in Unjust Rates

Washington, Tebruary 23.—The interstate commerce commissioners today promulgated an elaborate opinion in the case of George Rice, of Márietta, O., against the Louisville and Nashville and several other railroads, charging, among other things, discrimination in favor of the Standard Oli company. The complaint was held to be well founded in all the cases. In that against the Louisville and Nashville railroad, an order was entered that defendants cease their unjust discrimination; that they cease to make tank raites when tanks differ in capacity, and that they conform their charges on tank, car and barrel shipments to the rule prescribed in this decision.

In the case of the St. Louis and Iron Moun-Charged.

In the case of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain and Southern railway company, the commission finds that the defendant made excessive rates on barrel shipments, and that the effect was to unjustly discriminate against the complainant and to give undue and unreasonable preference to shippers by tank cars. An order was entered that its charges be corrected and made to conform to the rule. In the other three cases, the Mobile and Ohio, the Mississippi and Tennessee and the Illinois Central, no orders were entered. The commission states that while the questions raised by the charges are important, they scarcely received any attention, either in the taking of evidence or in arguments which were made on behalf of the complainants. A decision upon them would effect other parties quite as much as it would the parties now before the commission, and under such circumstances it would be improper to pass upon them now. In the case of the St. Louis and Iron Moun Springer's Omnibus Bill to be Reported to the House.

Washington, February 23.—By a strict party vote, the house committee on territories today agreed to report favorably Chairman Springer's "omnibus" bill to enable the people of Dakota, Montana, Washington territory and New Mexico to form constitutions and state governments, and to be admitted into the union on equal footing with the original states. Until the census is taken Dakota is allowed two representatives in congress, and the union on equal footing with the original states. Until the census is taken Dakota is allowed two representatives in congress, and each of the other new states one. The elections to be held Tuesday after the first Monday in August next, and the convention is to be held on the second Tuesday of September. The New Mexico convention is to consider the question of changing the name of the new state to Montezuma, and Washington the convention's proposition to adopt the name of Tacoma. The secretary of the treasury today sent to the house an estimate for an appropriation of $55,000 for the construction of a steam revenue exessel for duty on southern waters. A note appended to the estimate says that the revenue cutter stationed at Key West is of too great draught of water to be able to visit the shallow bays along Florida's coasts, which the department is informed have become the resort of smugglers from Cuba, and those engaged in violating the neutrality have. Phenomena in Illinois.

Phenomena in Illinols.

Monmouth, Ill., February 23.—This community was startled by a terrific roar or explosion last night, which was perceptibly felt to jar the walls and windows of many buildings in the city. The sky was lit up with what appeared to have been a monster meteor on a tramp. The direction was from the sontheast to the northwest. The meteor passed this place with lightning rapidity and an explosion took place shortly after. Reports from neighboring towns show that they all experienced the same sensations as to the shock and flight of the visitor, but whither it went is not yet known.

Evictions Under Difficulties.

Dublin, February 23.—The evictions of tenants on the Ponsonby estate, at Youghal, has been unexpectedly resumed. A large military and police force accompanied by a doctor, an ambulance and a fire engine, escorted the balliffs who went today to execute writs of eviction. A number of battering rams and sledge hammers were carried for the purpose of entrance to the house of any tenant who offers any resistance. The tenants were taken completely by surprise, but a family named Doyle succeeding in barring themselves inside their house, which was only captured after a strong resistance. There were several other exciting scenes. The police made many arrests. The weather was bitterly coid. Evictions Under Difficulties.

THE PRESIDEN'S PARTY IN FLORIDA.

ident at the Exposition-Mr. Cleve

JACKSONVILLE, Pla., February 23.-Yesterday's lowering clouds vanished during the night, and today furnished a typical example of Florida winter sunshine. The president's party rose early, and, after breakfasting, were escorted to the Sub-tropical exposition, which they inspected thoroughly before the example. fore the general public was admitted. Great surprise was expressed by all at the opulence and variety of flowers and fruit displayed, and especially at the oranges and characteristic sub-tropical plants. In the rustic building containing the exhibits of Hernando, Pasco and Citrus counties a full-sized orange tree covered with blooms and containing about one hundred oranges had been placed near the platform which Mrs. Cleveland ascended, and she enjoyed for the first time the experience of plucking orange blossoms and oranges from the tree. Bhe tossed to the president the first orange she picked, but his hands were not quick enough and he caught it on his nose. She offered him another, but he declined, saying that a man got into trouble a long time ago by accepting fruit plucked and offered by a woman. Here Mrs. Cleveland enjoyed an opportunity of catting pineapples from the stem, and she did whatever was proposed with a sort of girlish glee. A tame fawn was presented to her, and will be forwarded to the white house by express. platform which Mrs. Cleveland ascended, and to her, and will be forwarded to the white house by express.

Gifts in endless variety, consisting chiefly of flowers and fruits, were made to the presidential party, by officers of the exposition, commissioners and individual contributros, and much space in the car was filled by these when the start was made for St. Angustine. The schedule of the rest of the president's tour is as follows:

Leaving St. Angustine at 10 o'clock, tonight, he will arrive at 11 o'clock, at Palatka. From there a rapid run will be made to Leaving St. Augustine at 10 o'clock, tonight, he will arrive at 11 o'clock, at Palatks. From there a rapid run will be made to Titusville, where a steamer will be taken to Rockledge, on the Indian river. Leaving Rockledge on the return trip, at noon to-morrow, the party will visit the Sanford exposition, and also Winter Park. Jacksonville will be reached at 11 o'clock p. m., and Charleston about 8 o'clock Saturday morning. St. Augustine, Fla., February 23.—The president and party made a close inspection of the Sub-tropical exposition this morning, and were, at 11:30, driven to St. Augustine depot, crossed the river on the steamferry and at 11:50 left for the ancient city on a special train, as guests of H. M. Flagler, who accompanied the party. The run was made without stop or mcident in fifty minutes. At St. Augustine the party was escorted through the brilliantly and artistically decorated streets, by old Fort San Marco, Plaza De La Constitution and all the hotels by delegations of citizens, firemen and other organizations, to the Hotel Ponce de Leon, where there was a reception by the local military and two hundred children in holiday attire. In accordance with the president's request, there were no formal ceremonies. The party was assigned to the most elegant apartments in the palatial oriental hostelry. After a rest a tour of points of interest in and near the city will be made, and there will be a public reception tonight. The party will leave on a special train for Palatka, and will visit Indian river tomorrow, returning to Jacksonville tomorrow night. All are well and are enjoying the flying tour to Florida to its fullest extent. The weather is bright and balmy.

ROBBERY AND MURDER.

An Average Sample of Life in the Wild

KEARNEY, Neb., February 23.—[Special.]—One of the boldest attempts at highway robbery and murder ever known was attempted this morning about nine o'clock two miles east of the city, on the line of the Union Pacific railroad, by a man giving his name as C, H. Rankin, of Hastings, Neb., on the person of James A. Banks, who was driving a team of

The latter said: "You can have it, but don't shoot." Rankin at once commenced using a 38-calibre self-acting pistol, firing four shots. The last one took effect in Banks's arm, passing through the fleshy part. Banks then jumped from his wagon, caught Rankin by the wrist of the hand holding the weapon and made him empty the rest of the chambers of the revolver. He gave him what money he had and immediately departed in pursuit of his team, which meantime had been walking down the road. When he came to the house of Robert Stimp son, who, on learning the particulars, loaded a shotgun and started in pursuit of Rankin. Seeing Stimpson coming he took refuge in a haystack. Stimpson followed and covered Rankin with the gun. He was then marched in front of Stimpson to a farmers' house. The team was hitched to the wagon and driven to this city, where he was wagon and driven to this city, where he was turned over to the sheriff. Rankin begged piteously, fearing lynching, which was loudly talked. He is now in jail, and will be arraign-ed tomorrow. Banks is from Perkins county, in this state, and was on his way home to Dale City, Guthrie county, Iowa. It is thought he Address Resumed.

Lordon, February 23.—In the house of lords, this evening, Lord Strathden, liberal, moved that the government produce the latest papers regarding events in Bulgaria. He suggested that Great Britain initiate a conference to consider the Bulgarian question, and said that Bismarck would readily support such a movement.

conference to consider the Bulgarian question, and said that Bismarck would readily support such a movement.

Lord Salisbury promised to place the papers on the table. He did not think the proposed conference would be desirable. The Berlin treaty had already settled that the election of a prince of Bulgaria must be unanimous. The powers believed that an interchange of opinion through the ordinary diplomatic channels would overcome the existing differences.

The debate on the address in reply to the queen's speech was resumed in the house of commons tonight.

Mr. Shaw LeFevre (liberal) moved an amendment affirming the necessities of the measure dealing with the arrears of excessive rents in Ireland. He charged Mr. Balfour with using all forces of the government in favor of landlords like Conybeare who, he said, were the oppressors of tenants, and he commended the heroism shown by Wilfred Blunt in defending tenants.

Mr. Balfour reminded the house that fair rents had been fixed by the tribunals since the act of 1881 went into operation.

Mr. Shaw LeFevre, he said, was unreasonable to demand that tenants be released from arrears arising under terms so fixed.

Mr. Shaw LeFevre replied that in many cases arrears had not arisen under judicial rents. Only ten per cent of the rents on Lord Conybeare's estate was judicial rents, he said.

Mr. Balfour held that the act of 1881 fully protected the tenants, and that there was no need of new legislation.

Mr. Holly and other Parnellites continued the debate.

Chairman Arnold said that their names had been placed on record as declining to answer pertinent and proper questions relative to the sugar trust. The committee had got most of the information desired, and he did not know that the matter would go any further, but the question would be considered this week.

J. H. Dodsworth, managing editor of the Commercial Bulletin, was the first witness called to show that the prices of sugar had fallen from 1885 to the time of the formation of the trust, when they shot up.

Lawyer Parsons said he had brought one of the cortificates of stock and blanks of reports of the cortificates of stock and blanks of reports of the companies to the board.

Henry O. Haveneyer was put on the stand and examined concerning the certificate and as he started to examine, witness remarked exultingly:

FIGHTING THE YAGUIS.

Mexican Troops Defeat the Hostiles In an Engagement.

Nogales, A. T., February 23.—[Special.]—Of late the Mexican troops have been getting the best of every right had with the rebellious Yagui Indians, and this fact gives rise to the hope that the great Yagui war may yet be brought to a close and peace once more restored in southern Sonora. The last fight occurred a few days ago at the little village of Batachi, in the wilds of the Bairtell mountains. Captain Encoso, at the head of a number of troops and a large party of citizens or peons from the ranches, attacked the Indians who were fortified in a strong position. The Yaguis defended themselves bravely, and the combat raged from 2 o'clock until nightfall, when the battle was suspended owing to the darkness. The following morning, with the intent of continuing the battle, the troops moved on to the Indian fortifications, but found them deserted, the Yaguis having left during the night with their wounded. In the pits were found the dead bodies of ten Indians. Captain Encoso sustained the loss of one killed and two wounded. Encoso is in hot pursuit of the Indians with a reinforcement of fifty more men from the Twelfth battalion, and is well supplied with munitions of war. General Guerra has ordered the soldiers encamped at Patam to form a combination with Encoso, with the object of surrounding the Indians. Mexican Troops Defeat the Hostiles In an

THROWN OFF THE TRACK.

The Nerve and Presence of Mind of a Switchman. Tuscola, Ills., February 23 .- [Special.]-The presence of mind of a switchman on the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, at Grape Creek, this morn-ing, prevented what might have been another railroad horror. A freight engine at the head of twenty loaded coal cars came thundering down the steep incline, which leads to the coal mine at a Igreat rate, being utterly unmanageable. The switchman seeing the run-away train would dash into the rear of the passenger train loaded with passengers standing on the main track, quickly turned the switch. This threw the engine and coal cars off the rack, and the whole was piled in confusion causing damage to the amount of probably $815,000. Engineer Bogart jumped from the freight engine and received dange rous wounds

POTTSVILLE, Pa., February 23.—The con-Pottsville, Pa., February 23.—The congressional investigation committee resumed its inquiry into the coal strikes in Hazel in this city today. Almost the entire day was given up to hearing from two representative miners, one of whom is a member of the state legislature, accounts of the conditions of the life which prevail among coal miners. They are represented as being little better than serfs. In debt to their employers almost all their lives, with scarcely ever more than two-thirds of full time employment, subject to numberless setty exactions, besides the one great one practiced through the "Company Store" system, they are described as seldom seeing a dollar in money, and are even taxed a fixed sum for doctors' bills, which is collected by the employers, and are charged with a given amount of coal for fuel, whether they burn it or not. The impositions practiced upon them under the system of leasing tenements owned by the coal companies were also described.

Prench Legislation.

Paris, February 23.—At a meeting of the party of the right today, it was decided to vote against the secret service fund. Twenty-six deputies stated their intention not to vote on the measure. In the chamber of deputies, Premier Tirard declared that he would regard the vote on the clause in budget relating to the secret service a a question of confidence in the ministry. He said that there were precautions necessary in the government of the country, especially as regards explonage, which it was essential not to shandon as a neurs of national defense. The clause was adopted by a vote of 248 to 23.

The chamber also approved continuance until June 1, of the present surfax on foreign alcohols.

Prof. J. R. Blake, Sr., of Greenwood, S. C. recently visited the resort, and gives the result of his observations in the following extract clipped from the Greenwood Tribune:

The curative value of the place for some diseases is very remarkable. Rheumatism, dyspepsia, paralysis and some forms of nervousness were signally relieved in individuals coming under my nersonal observation; one vousness were signally relieved in individuals coming under my personal observation; one young man from McCornnick, S. C., who had been prostrated for seventeen months by deranged digestion, was thoroughly cured, gaining eighteen pounds in one month. An elderly gentleman from Penfield, Ga., who had been partially paralyzed on one side for eight years, arrived at the shaft in the same hack with myself. His right hand was disabled, and he walked with great difficulty when he arrived, but after six days in the shaft he could write letters to his family, and walked with comparative case about the grounds. Many such cases are reported by reliable persons familiar with the history of the place.

Now as to the remedial agencies at work in effecting these wonderful cures, I must speak with more caution. A very common impression provention of the relief.

affecting these wonderful cures, I must speak with more caution. A very common impression prevailing at a distance is that the relief afforced partakes of the nature of the "faith cures" of which we hear so much; but no one can remain long at the place without being convinced that this hypothesis is indefensible. In many cases cures come to the incredulous, and in spite of all the laws of faith. The prevailing theory among the visitors at the shaft is that the effect is produced from electricity derived from the walls and earth toor of the rooms. To test this belief in some practical form I made the following experiment: Two froms. To test this belief in some practical form I made the following experiment: Two No. 16 copper wires, each 12 feet long, were inserted into the walls at opposite corners of shaft No. 1. In the absence of a scientific galvometer, I introduced into the circuit of these vometer, and of the most equable and selfwires several of the most equable and self-poised patients who were present, to see if they could detect any current from the wall through es. Six persons were introduced in on, and all except one claimed to feel succession, and all except one claimed to feel in the wires the same tingling sensations which they derived directly from the wall. Of course, excited imagination and nervous irritability are unknown quantities which cannot be eliminated from this problem, so long as the human system is employed in its solution, but it is scarcely credible that so many reliable and sober persons would be mistaken in identifying the sensation derived from the wires with the sensation given by the walls.

in identifying the sensation derived from the wires with the sensation given by the walls. There is much difficulty still remaining in this problem, as to the origin of the electricity, the irregular fitful way in which it acts, and many other points suggested by the abnormal conditions of the case.

Among the remedial agencies at work, the excellent mineral water cannot be overlooked, indeed, I was at first disposed to ascribe all the cures chiefly to this agent, which is obtained in abundance from pumps in the corners of the Washington, Ga., January 23, 1888.—Mr. James A. Benson, President: I certify that for ten years I have been a great sufferer with rheumatism, which became very much aggravated in the last two or three years. At times I was confined to my bed and house; was unable to walk without crutches, and was compelled to give up all work. My sufferings were intense. I applied to different doctors for relief, but experienced none from their treatment. Last summer I visited the Electric Health Resort at Hillman, and after staying there awhile and drinking the Electric Waters, my rheumatism was entirely cured, and I have not had the slightest return of it. It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great healing properties of this wonderful place and its waters, and nothing that I could say would too strongly express my confidence in its virtues.

EDWARD BONNER.

Washington, Ga., January 19.—Mr. James A. Benson, President: I take pleasure in bearing testimony to the remarkable virtues of the Electric Health Resort. My little daughter, Bessie, 10 years old, had an attack of a very serious nature, affecting her neck, in June last.

Alarmed at her condition, I had her treated by the most skillful physicians in this placa and Atlants, who used artificial electricity and other remedies. In September she was still suffering, and no change perceptible, when, as a last resort, we went to the electric shaft. She only went twice. The first visit improved her, and the second night she remained all night in the rooms, and came home completely restored and has remained so. These are facts, and I state them with no other object than to inform others suffering as did my little girl of the wonderful virtues of this gesort.

MR. B. F. BROWN: Dea Sir—This certifies that during last May I was stricken with severe nervous prostration, was confined to my room for three months, and to my bed for the greater part of the time. About the 20th of August I went to the "Hillman Shaft" (Electric Resort,) and after spending four days there found that I was completely cured, and have been entirely well ever since then. The cure in my case was a great wonder to me and my friends, and I am a strong believer in the virtues of the place.

Alexander Lovejoy Goes to the Penitentiary.

Remarks of Judge Clark in Passing the Sentence.

DECATOR, Ga., February 23.—[Special.] | The courtroom in Decatur this morning was filled to its fullest seating capacity, the crowd being about equally divided as to whites and colored. In the ranks of the colored people could be seen many women and children. As soon as his honor Judge Richard H. Clark was seated, he instructed the sheriff to bring in the seated, he instructed the sheriff to bring in the jury in the Lovejoy case. The jury all filed in, and stood crescent shaped facing the judge: "Have you agreed on a verdict, gentlemen of the jury?" asked the judge, as a solemn silence prevailed in the courtroom. Mr. W. S. Power, foreman of the jury, answering in a deep, well modulated tone, replied: "We have." "Read it, Mr. Solicitor," remarked the judge. At this point, the colored members of the audience craned their necks forward, in the attitude of intense listening. Solicitor General Candler read as follows:
"We, the jury find the defendant, Alexander Lovejoy, guilty of murder and recommend him to mercy."

A wave of relief seemed to sweep over the Lovejoy, guilty of murder and recommend him to mercy.

A wave of relief seemed to sweep over the colored element as this was announced. Mr. Hal C. Jones, of counsel for the defendant, required that the jury should be polled. This was done, and each member of the jury responded that it was his verdiet in a firm and decided manner. Mr. Jones gave notice at the request of General L. J. Gartrell of a motion for new trial. Judge Clark in passing sentence gave a sensible talk to the colored men present. The idea that the race question entered into this affair was unfounded. He called attention to the fact that it was a celebration of colored Sunday schools in a tabernacle owned by the white people; that the disturbance was created by colored people and that the police authorities were called upon to protect the law abiding colored people there engaged in religious service. He referred to the fact that the colored people were more frequently in the habit of disturbing divine worship than the white people. He urged upon the colored people a stricter regard for law as their own safeguard, and the cultivation by themselves of a more kindly feeling towards the whites.

In this case Mr. Hurst was not present in his own individuality, but as the representative of the law. He was defied, overpowered, resisted and killed. He did his duty. Judge Clark commented on the strange fact that the man who violated the law and the arresting officer, were the only ones killed, amid all the firing that was done on that occasion. He urged the defendant to bow to the mandates of the law, and then pronounced the sentence on him of imprisonment in the penitentiary for life.

Lovejoy passed through the ordeal without a change of countenance or any evidence to show that the verdict had made any impression on him. He exhibits in a remarkable degree complete indifference to the matter.

JACK GOLDSMITH

On Trial for Felony in DeKalb Superior Court.

Decatur, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—This morning in DeKalb superior court, soon after sentence was pronounced on Lovejoy, Mr. Turnbull asked that the jury in the case of the state vs. Jack Goldsmith, for rescuing a prisoner, be sent out for awhile, which was done. Mr. Turnbull then stated that while the charge given in passing the sentence on Lovejoy was all right, yet, as it held that the parties engaged in the disturbance were engaged in a lawless act, and the theory of the defense was that the conduct of the arresting officers was that the conduct of the arresting officer

The state examined Bailiff J. W. Rodgers, Eli Hutchinson, A. B. Coffey, W. J. Houston, Jr., and J. W. Kirkpatrick.

The defense examined Bob White, Sam Jackson, Wallace White, George Griffin and Elias Burdett.

The testimony of Bailiff Rodgers was positive that Jack Goldsmith pushed him and broke his hold on the prisoner Hubert, and that Jack said that he would be damed if Hubert should be taken off by the officers.

While Eli Hutchinson, colored, was on the stand, Mr. Turnbull asked: "Eli, how many names have you?" To which the witness responded: "Eli Hutchinson all the world over." Question—It is not Eli Perkins?

Answer—No, sir. I am a notable nigger.
Question—Notable in what? Good looks?

Answer—Yes, good looks and good character.

The testimony adduced on the part of the state was that Jack Goldsmith was drinking and participated in the rescue of the prisoner.

SHOT IN THE HEAD. A Negro Woman That is Hard to Kill-Shot Three Times. rom the Brunswick, Ga., Breeze.

From the Brunswick, Ga., Breeze.

Last Saturday night, about 10 o'clock, the people of Union street, near where the street cars turn above Gloucester street, were startled by the sound of five pistol shots fired in rapid succession, and by cries of murder! But when a policeman reached the vicinity all was quiet, and no one seemed to know anything about it. Diligent search was made, but only next morning was it found that Lucy Jackson, a mulatto woman, had been shot by her paramour, but she refused to inform on him. Three of the shots took effect, and he evidently meant to kill, but was only prevented by a thick skull, against which ordinary thirty-two caliber lead made no impression. One bullet knocked out a tooth, which she spit out with the ball. Another took out a piece of cheek bone, and a third struck the back of her head and bounced off. She is up as lively as ever, but "don't want anybody to hurt her lover."

A HORRIBLE MISTAKE.

Dr. Cooper, of Barnett, on the Verge of

A few days since, Dr. Cooper, of Barnett, Ga., while attending his daughter, Mrs. Chapcia., while attending his daughter, Mrs. Chapman, together with another physician, gave her through mistake two capsules containing five grains of morphine, instead of quinine, as he intended. The two medicines were in bottles exactly alike, and Dr. Cooper's mistake was a naturaf one. After giving Mrs. Chapman the morphine, her father retired. When the other physician, who was sitting up with her, discovered that there was something wrong with his patient and called Dr. Cooper, it was then to the father's horror, found that he had given morphine for quinine. Every effort was made to arouse Mrs. Chapman, but she remained in a stupefied condition until death onsued.

she remained in a stupefied condition until death ensued.

Dr. Cooper's condition was pitiable indeed, and he was prostrated with grief at his fatal mistake. So far from time relieving his grief, it only adds fresh horror to his mind, and he is now reported to be on the verge of insanity, and it is feared that he will lose his mind.

Dr. Cooper moved from Powelton, Ga., to be with his daughter, who had only married about a year ago, and to whom he was devotedly attached. He has the sympathy of every one in his great trouble, for it is one of those unfortunate mistakes by which he is the principal sufferer. Dr. Cooper ranks high in his profession, and his act is attributed to the fact that he was himself broken down from nursing his daughter and his whole system was shattered. Mrs. Chapman might have died anyway, for she was in a very low condition, and it may be that the overdose of morphine only served to make her death easy. This thought, however, is no relief to the half-crazed father, who reproaches himself as being his daughter's murderer.

He advised his auditors never to drink when angry. He was perfectly calm when speaking, and turned from side to side while addressing the crowd around, saying that he wanted everybody, big, little,

This morning Judge W. B. Thomas, president and general manager of the Blue Ridge and Atlantic railroad, called the merchants and and Atlantic railroad, called the merchants and shippers of this place together for the purpose of pacifying them on the subject of high freights. He claims that he is doing all in his power for the people of this section, and will do what is in his power to regulate the freights. The judge thinks all this trouble will come to an end by May the first, when the extension of the road to Knoxville will commence, and when completed will be one of the greatest trunk roads in the south.

The fact that Judge Thomas is going to put a Sunday passenger and mail train on the road is a guarantee that he is working for our interest.

For the Convers Volunteers.

CONVERS, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—
The entertainment given last night at Almond's hall, by Miss Lilie Pearce, in behalf of the Convers Volunteers, was a most enjoyable occasion.

occasion.

Miss Pearce is one of the most accomplished electionists to be found in this broad land. Though only an ameteur, she would shine as a "bright particular star" in any professional troupe. Conyers is justly proud of her fair acquisition. She is the daughter of our distinguished townsman, Colonel S. A. Pearce, recently of Columbia, S. C. Our own "Emmel," the Garrick of Georgia, was on hand, and in his own inimitable style convulsed the house with irristible laughter. The Volunteers netted quite a sum.

Breaking Through Jail. Douglasville, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]
Last night the sheriff carried a prisoner to jail whom he had arrested in the afternoon. He found the prisoners in the jail in the act of escaping. They had made an opening and were making a rope ladder out of their blankets which had been torn in strips. The appearance of the sheriff stopped the little game. The jail is old, rickety and very insecure, and a new one will be built during the year.

Thomas, president and general manager of the Blue Ridge and Atlantic railroad, called the merchants and shippers of this place together for the purpose of pacifying them on the subject of high freights. He claims that he is doing all in his power for the people of this section, and will do what is in his power to regulate the freights. The judge thinks all this trouble will come to an end by May the first, when the extension of the road to Knoxville will commence, and when completed will be one of the greatest trunk roads in the south.

The fact that Judge Thomas is going to put a Sunday passenger and mail train on the road is a guarantee that he is working for our interest.

Breaking Through Jail.

DOUGLASVILLE, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]
Last night the sheriff carried a prisoner to jail whom he had arrested in the afternoon. He found the prisoners in the jail in the act of escaping. The jail is old, rickety and very insecure, and a new one will be built during the year.

BUENA VISTA, Ga., February 23.—[Special.] J. E. French, a well known and popular drummer for Bone & Chappell, of Macon, was arrested here yesterday at the instance of J. T. Mr. Singleton swore that he had previously made an assignment, that Bone & Chappell were creditors to the amount of one hundred and fifty dollars, that French met him in the public road and drew a pistol on him, and told him if he did not pay him there and then he would kill him, whereupon he handed over to him thirty-two dollars that belonged to his brother. He further swore that it was the fear of death that caused him to hand over the money. money.

The mystsry is that this was not an addition to the copious list of fatalities at that bridge. The heavy rains of today and recently have caused the Oconee river to overflow, and has put Milledgeville's relations with the eastern portion of the county just where they have been nearly ever since last July. Just as the other bridge was finished it was swept away, and this evening, just three days after completion, one section of the new bridge was swept away, and as the stream is thought to be rising. it is probable that more of it will go tonight.

SAVANNAH, Ga., February 23 .- [Special.]-Rain was falling in torrents this morning when the day dawned, but that did not prewhen the day dawned, but that did not prevent the people of Savannah and the visitors turning out to see the great event of the day, the trades' union procession and display. Early in the morning the line began forming on South Broad street, and by half past nine everything was in readiness. The sidewalks along the line of march, which had been designated, were thronged with ladies and children, as well as men. The windows along the line were crowded, and the rain went on.

Headed by a band the procession moved off.

There were many bands in the line, and the music was within the hearing of everybody until the entire procession had gone by.

REVIEWED BY THE GOVERNOR.

Governor Gordon, with his staff, witnessed the display from the exchange. Between ten and eleven o'clock the governor's party reached the exchange. At the main entrance they were met by Mayor Lester, Colonel Falligant and Frank Rebarrer, clerk of the city council. The several gentlemen escerted the governor's party to the veranda. The governor took his position in the center of the floor, and about him his staff and friends gathered. When the procession becan passing the thoor, and about him his staff and friends gathered. When the procession began passing the exchange, Governor Gordon raised his hat and with uncovered head watched the display. The people in the line saluted the governor as they went by, and the salute was with a will and was long and loud.

The display was a surprise to Savannah. It was better than her most loyal citizen had hoped it would be, and among the strangers created a most favorable impression. The line stretched over several blocks, and many of the floats were fane. The Travelers Protective association were out in a body, and had a float representing a number of

The finest float, however, was one gotton up by the South Florida and Western railroad. It showed a passenger coach with faces at the windows. On the front of the float was the representation of an iceberg with a polar bear at at telephone. The front end of the car was covered with snow, and the conductor was muffled up like a Dakota school teacher. At the other end were Floridians lying in hammunicat up like a Pakota school teacher. At the other end were Floridians lying in hammocks and standing chatting and fanning beneath orange and palmetto trees. An alligagator in the back-ground was telephoning the polar bear to come south and grow up with the country.

Governor Gordon conversed with those about him while the line was going by and

Some of the floats were within themselves a complete show. One was a blacksmith shop, and upon the wagon was a fline horse, on whose hind foot a smith was nailing a shoe. Another was a house on fire. Upon the burning building firemen were at work with water and axes. Still another was an exact reproduction of one of the leading business houses in the city.

THE RECEPTION.

After the procession had gone by, the governor and his staff were tendered a reception, and the reception was like everything Savannah does. It was simply magnificent. The mayor and aldermen, assisted by Clerk Rebarer and Marshal Wade, did the honors of the occasion. Champagne flowed freely, and the

JASPER AND PULASKI.

The Times, Mr. Hartridge's paper, this afternoon gives a graphic account of the last day's fight at the siege of Savannah, October 9, 1779. In the final assault made by the Americans on the lines of the English on that day, both Sargeant William Jasper and Count Pulaski received mortal wounds. Says one writer in reference to the wounding of the two gallant soldiers:

reference to the wounding of the two gallant soldiers:

The American lines were in hopeless confusion. There is no possible chance to reform under the killing fire, and officers and men are making one desperate struggle to reach the enemy's breastworks. Oh, for some timely signal, some miraculous beacon, to guide them to their goal, and above the smoke and fiames, on the very ramparts of the English, it rises on their sight. Many have seen it before, as it finitered in triumphant victory from the walls of Moultrie's fort. It is the faded and battle stained flag of proud Carolina, and beneath it, with the stair firmly classed in his devoted hands, stands the gallant Jasper. With wild shouts the men dash onward. What to them now are the flames and pain of death? They heed not the dying groan of comrade or friend. They see nothing save that solliny form, as he bodds up to their gaze freedom's hir standard, and gives himself a sacrifice, for the many storms of leaden hall are falling around him. The flagstaff is severed in his class. He gasaps it higher, and waves it triumphantly over him. Eagerly the daring soldiers spring into the very trenches of the enemy's breastworks, only to be cut down like those who went before them, until the very earth is red with the blood of the slain. One arm shattered, the noble Jasper is wounded, and his right arm heags powerless by his side, but his strong left hand still grasps the banner, baptized in blood, and consecrated by the prayer of an Elliott. He had sworn to defend it with his life, and he would not do less. For an instant victory seems trembling in the balance, but only for an instant. The knops are rushing about in wild conthusion.

In vain D'Estaing, wounded and bleeding, calls on the soldiers of France to raise their trailing standard. Again the gallant McIntosh throws himself before the retreating Americans, and pleads with them to avenge a dying Jasper. There is no hope left. The day is irretrievably lost, and yet another field of death is ready for the harvest. The legion of Pulaski is still held in reserve, and in sheer desperation the order is given them to charge the enemy's center. It is a bold stroke, born of grim despair, for the legion is all alone, and they are less than 300. The center line is in motion, sabres are flashing, horses are plunging, men madly shouting, while from the bristling parapet comes back, in loud derision, the defiant yells of the English garrison. Charge! Three hundred men are only left in the saddle. Nearer and nearer they come, until they can hear the offeers in the enemy's freuches commanding their men to keep coal and aim steady. They fight like demons, but they are only mortals, and line after line presses forward only to go down like those who have gone before them. The disorganized mass is breaking in confusion.

only to go down like those who have gone before them. The disorganized mass is breaking in confusion.

Pulaski seizes the sacred banner which has ever borne his name to proud victory. He waves and the magic standard, Again the clear notes of martial bugles sound forth the call to raily. Rach man and horse knows and obeys the summons. There is a pop of musketry from the enemy's parapet, but under the dense smoke they reform, and are ready to charge again.

Pulaski dashes forward into the thickest of the fray, while the men close in around him. It is a terrible vision of smoke and flame, and blood and death. For a few brief moments it flashes on the sight, and then the crimson banner is trailing in the dust, while its gallant bearer is beneath its folis, tramped on by reckless men and wounded horses in wild confusion of flight. The day is lost under the deady fire which is pouring in one continuous stream from the enemy's breastworks. Each man finds his way as best he can back to the cover of the woods. Slowly the smoke of battle lifts itself from off the blood-stained field. The sun goes down, and darkness rests upon the dead of blood and wee, defeat and death.

A WORD IN CONCLUSION.

The military spirit of Savannah rejoices in two things, the love of drill and the love for wine. In drills, they beat the world except Atlanta, but in the wines they beat the world, Atlanta included, and why, because they use Clicquot. Since the festival began, there have been many banquets in the city, and at all the Clicquot only has been used. Governor Gordon drank that wine at the reception tendered him today by the city council, and like all others he will not awake with a headache in the morning.

ANOTHER LAND MARK GONE. The Old Floyd House in Macon Falls for the Macon, Ga., February 23.—[Special.]—Today, a little after noon, as the Jews and Germans in their quarter of the town were sitting around smoking their pipes, and complaining at the duliness of trade and extremely bad weather, they were startled out of their reason by a terrific roar of falling walls and crashing timbers, and the shrieks of frightened darkies, who thought they were in Charleston and that another earthquake was at hand. They rushed out of their shops to see large crowds gathering at the old Floyd house, which was the scene of the accident. The western end of the building had fell in, and carried destruction with it. It is a two-story structure, and was occupied by a negro restaurant and a butcher shop. In the negro quarters were about twenty-five coons at dinner, and the way they poured out reminded one of a drove of blackbirds rising out of a field when a gun had been discharged in their midsts. But no one was hurt, and a dangerous piece of property has been gotten rid of at last. Messrs. Turpin & Ogden, agents for T. C. Dempsey, the owner, had the remaining walls torn down this evening.

Old settlers will remember that the Floyd house was one of the first buildings erected in the city, and at one time was the leading hotel of the place. Part of it fell in thirty-seven years ago, and then all but the remaining portion in 1883. The present part was condemned by council two years ago, and if any one had been hurt by its falling, the owner, Mr. Dempsey, would have been responsible.

HAWKINSVILLE, Ga., February 23.-[Spe ial.]-Pulaski was today the wettest of cour cial.—Pulaski was today the wettest of counties, yet when night arrived the dry vote in the prohibition contest was large enough to keep the county in the dry column. Rain has been falling all day in perfect torrents, largely decreasing the vote in country precincts, which will explain a small dry majority. Only about thirty white votes were cast wet in the Hawkinsville district against the prohibition sentiment of the town. A dry majority of Eghty out of a vote of 26% is the result.

Despite the bad weather of the past few days, the ladies have been out, and have done a noble and grand work in their town, and many were the converts made to their cause Except in preparing dinner for the voters today at the courthouse, their direct work was to the white voters. Their conduct has been without reproach. Several of the leading anti workers of the last contest were conspicuous for their intended absence or for their dry votes. Nearly every prominent business and professional citizen of the town labored earnestly in the cause of pro-hibition, while the anti element had only three or four white workers in Hawkinsville district, and their only hope of success was on account of the colored vote, which was wet, very wet. But few others were made.

On account of the swollen streams, the vote in all country precincts has been scarcely half as large as in the last election. There are ten precincts in the county. Seven have been heard from, which gives prohibition a majority of 102, which, when all are in and an official count, may possibly be reduced to fifty ma-jority. The clashes between the forces were few and insignificant. Everything passed off quietly, without incident.

Not far from the bookcase was a chair and a table, also two lamps burning. Allen wanted something from an unper shelf, and pulling out a lower drawer, climbed up on it, when down came the bookcase, on him, on little Florence, on table, chair and lamps, crushing the chair and table to pieces, breaking the lamps and starting a fire, bruising Allen just a little, while little Florence, after the extinguishment of the fire, was taken out from beneath the wreck unharmed. The old nurse being a better Calvinist than the judge is, with her arms around both the little ones, knelt at once by a chair and all gave thanks for this special providence, by which two young lives had been spared, and two little bodies saved from broken bones and pains and possible deformity.

THE CONSTITUTION,

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 24, 1888. President Cleveland and the Committee.

We trust our Washington correspondent was wrong in assuming that when the national committee named July 3d as the date of the democratic convention it meant a deleat for Mr. Cleveland.

THE CONSTITUTION differs with the president as to certain details of democratic policy. All the same, the sole and only hope democratic success is in the hearty, unanimous and prompt nomination Grover Cleveland if he is alive when the convention meets. To antagonize him through personal prejudice or the pride of on is to endanger democratic victory.

If the president were to decline a renor nation the party might choose another leader and make a hopeful fight. But to edge Mr. Cleveland out or to knife him on petty issues would be the height of political president this country has had since Abra-

THE St. Louis Globe-Democrat is of the opinion that Brother Blaine is not the most candid man in the world. Alas!

St. Louis the Place. As will be seen by our Washington dispatches this morning, the national demo cratic committee has selected St. Louis as the place for holding the convention, and the date has been fixed for June 5th.

In choosing St. Louis the committee has certainly made the wisest selection possible from the cities prominently mentioned for the place. San Francisco's claims were vigorously pressed, and until the final ballot it seemed that she would be successful; but the fact that a majority of the committee was strongly impressed with the belief that she was too far distant to be within sufficiently convenient access from all parts of the country, made it impossible for the golden city to overbalance the claims of St. Louis and Chicago. Had the contest been between St. Louis and San Francisco, or between San Francisco and Chicago, it would probably have taken only a single ballot to have decided the matter in favor of either of the two western cities, both of which are situated near the railroad center of the country and possess every advantage required to make complete the conveniences and the comfort of the great number of delegates and visitors to the convention.

St. Louis is preferable to Chicago-first, because it is in a democratic state, while Illinois is undoubtedly and irretrievably republican; and next, for the reason that, as the republican convention is to be held in Chicago, it is best that that of the democrats should be located elsewhere.

This will be the second time that the democrats have held their convention in St. Louis, Tilden having been nominated there in 1876. Chicago got it in 1884, Cincinnati in 1872, and New York in 1868. Of the six conventions of the republican party, this year's included, since 1868, four of '68, '80, '84, '88. That of 1872 was held i Philadelphia, and of 1876 in Cincinnati.

In fixing the time of holding the demo cratic convention prior to that of the repubidea of the national committee to have the democratic platform formulated without reference to that of the republicans, and to allow the convention to take the initiator steps in reforms which will probably be agreed upon by both conventions: This is a matter of very little importance either way, for the two parties will go before the country on the result of their work, when-we clip the following paragraph for purposes of comment:

The citizens of Georgia have been told that they owe all their prosperity to the tariff. The cotton mills of Georgia have been warned that tariff reform meant the ruin of that industr. In picturesque and romantic language, the moonshiners of Georgia have been described as persecuted marlyrs, hunted by savages with warrants from the United States courts, and driven from their homes and peaceful haunts.

The foregoing is from the editorial columns of the Louisville, Ky., Courier-Journal, and, as might be supposed, there is not a word of truth in it from beginning to end. The people of Georgia have not been told that they owe all their prosperity to the tariff; but they have been told that the protection of American labor and American industries would add to their prosperit by developing the wonderful resources of the tate. They have been told that the results that have been produced at the north—'-New England, in Pennsylvania and in Ohio to cite particular instances—can be produced in Georgia to a far greater extent. They have been told what protection has done for New England it will do for the south, only in a ten fold greater degree. It has filled every hamlet, village, town and city, and lined every stream in New England with productive industries. It has given profitable and inexhaustible markets o the farmers; and it has made valuable the most sterile lands to be found in the

It is not true that "the cotton mills or Georgia have been warned that tariff reform meant the ruin of that industry." Real tariff reform would not injure them at all, for it would leave them protected. The more cotton mills in the south the better for the farmer, for the growth and extension of this industry mean better prices for cotton and lower prices for goods. The building of new cotton mills in the south means that the cotton crop is to be manufactured where the staple is grown, and this, in turn, means better and nearer markets for the markets for all the products of his farm. It eans more mouths for the farmer to feed and cash prices for everything that he can

It will be remembered that when Mr. Cobden, who was the paid agent of the manufacturers of Great Britain, was making his free-trade campaign, he was met by the solid opposition of the farming classes. This class was strenously opposed to freetrade, and the result has shown that they were right. The average working man of Great Britain is in a condition of abject poverty, and the farmers are not much bet-

Finally, the moonshiners of Georgia have not been "described as martyrs, hunted by savages with warrants from the United States courts, and driven from their homes and peaceful haunts." THE CONSTITUTION has simply called attention to the fact that the internal revenue system is oppressive and un-American; that the law gives the deputy marshals power to arrest the innocent as well as the guilty; and that men who are charged with violating it are dragged away from their homes and friends to be tried. There are only two countries on the face of the earth where such a procedure is tolerated. One is Russia: the other is the great and glorious United States, the land of the free and the home of

The Son of Jefferson Davis's Coachman The movement started in Kansas to colonize the negroes in South America is not viewed in a favorable light by the race most deeply interested in it.

Among the intelligent colored men opposing the scheme is Lieutenant William A. Jackson, of North Topeka, Kansas. Lieutenant Jackson has written a letter to THE CONSTITUTION, in which he says:

The prime movers in th's emigration scheme are a set of ward heelers, and their main object is to create political capital far the G.O. P., and to fatten their pockets at the expense of our ignorant southern brethren. My father was coachman for Mr. Jefferson Davis in Richmond. He made his escape in 1862. See Harper's Weekly, June 7th, 1862. played with the children of Mr. Davis. Slavery dead, thank God! What is left is for the negro make common cause with his white brother, nor and south, and we expect aid from both sections in obtaining perfection of citizenship. What the ne gro needs now is mental and political freedom Money will produce that, and self-government, pa triotism and home interest will follow.

The son of Jefferson Davis's coachman writes very sensibly. He goes on to say that in twenty years the negroes have built up church organizations with 2,000,000 com municants. They have learned preachers eachers, journalists, lawyers and merchants. They are admitted into the labor unions and the courts of justice are open to them. Why should they emigrate to a country where there are 1,000,000 slaves. They are oing well enough in the south, and, says this independent writer: "The day is com ing when they will suffer no infringement of their rights as southerners, but will vote and act, not as political tools, but as south ern gentlemen,' The son of Jefferson Davis's coachma takes pains to inform us that he is a demo crat. This is a hopeful sign. When intelligent colored men, with such antecedents take this stand they are doing a good worl for their race, and are making long stride towards that "perfection of citizenship" which seems to them so desirable. Undoubtedly Lieutenant Jackson is right in his opposition to the colonization scheme and he takes the right view of the situation of his brethren in the south. The southern negroes have made wonderful progress in twenty years, and there is no bar in the way their happiness and prosperity. white fellow-citizens have stood by them all the time, and will gladly do anything that will contribute to their advancement Our correspondent may rest assured that he is on the right line, and he cannot do bette

Our Trouble With Morocc It is all very well to protect the rights of our citizens in Morocco, but before our gun boats turn loose their thunder it would be wise to make every effort to bring about an amicable adjustment of our difficulties.

In 1812, when we were engaged in a war with England, the dev of Algiers sent out his piratical vessels to rob our ships. Finally an American brig, with its crew and passen gers, was carried to Algiers. The United States demanded the release of the prisoners and the dey replied that he would give them up on the payment of $50,000. He also said that he wanted a portrait of Wash-

We actually yielded to these impudent demands, but we paid the money in driblets, so that it was two years before the last of the prisoners was released. Later we sent a naval squadron to Algiers and knocked the dey and his capital city into a cocked

Now, the sultan of Morocco is next door to Algiers, and he is fully as hard a case as the old dey who gave us so much trouble in the early part of the century. If he has allowed the Americans in his dominions to be imposed upon he is not the man to make amends until he sees that it is the best policy. How to make him see it is the question. With the friendly assistance of the great powers of Europe we could doubtless induce him to listen to reason. But if a few of our shackly war tubs attempt to force him to terms, they will run the risk of being captured, and a heavy ransom will then be demanded for officers and crews. The sultan of Morocco is not a very big man, but he is able to defy our little navy. We are not equipped for hostilities so far me, and so long as we remain without war ships and fortifications, our safest course will be to arbitrate our differences with other nations. IT is now hinted that Brother Blaine wants to get back to the senate

The Anti-Poverty Society's Collar The Anti-Poverty society which was organized some months ago in New York to give Henry George and the Rev. Dr. Mc-Glynn something to do, after a brief existence, is about to peter out, so to speak; and the two shining lights of the organization do not speak as they pass by.

All this trouble arose from the stand which Mr. George took on the Cleveland message, he having heartily approved its free-trade sentiments and promised the hearty support of the labor party to the president in the next election. This angered the Rev. Dr. McGlynn, who probably has presidential aspirations himself, and was arranging to go before the country as the ominee of the united labor party.

Dr. McGlynn is president of the Anti-Poverty society, and Henry George is its vice-president; and the recent rupture in the heretofore harmonious brotherhood occurred at the last weekly meeting of its executive committee. A few nights before this the Rev. Dr. McGlynn had denounced Mr. George for having side-tracked the united labor party on the free-trade issue; and it was expected that trouble would arise at the committee meeting. By virtue of his position as president, Dr. McGlynn possessed the constitutional right to increase the membership of the committee to the extent of ten more members; and as a majority of the committee sympathized with Mr. George, Dr. McGlynn very promptly announced ten new appointees of his own following, and at once called the committee together and proceeded to read Mr. George and his supporters out of the party. The George element immediately left the meeting and the McGlynn faction is continuing siness in the old stand.

This is a very serious disaffection in the ranks of the third party; and, unless something is done to patch it up, we fear that the Rev. Dr. McGlynn's chances for the presidency will be very seriously impaired. Of course Mr. George cannot now support Dr. McGlynn, and of course Dr. McGlynn cannot be elected without the support of Mr. George. It is not too late yet, h to mend matters sufficiently to give the reverend doctor a showing. McGlynn and the Rev. R. R. Burchard would make a very fine ministerial combination for a ticket for the united labor party.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE. A Word to Young Men.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: Your editorial caded "What Makes Criminals," was timely and headed "What Makes Criminals," was timely and suggestive. It is a notable fact that the mechanical, scientific and agricultural industries are suffering, while the professions, clerkships and such are full to overflowing. It is passing strange that young men seek to avoid anything that looks like manual labor, however skillful, and search for employment as clerks, book keepers, travelling salesmen, or anything that sports the "genteel," in preference to working as a skilled artisan with much better wages and salary, and a great deal more independence.

I was asked today by a prominent contractor, if I could tell him where he could get a good wood turner and a first-class carver. He would pay high wages with steady work. This contractor had tried for several days to secure su hene, but found none. He advertised, a short time ago, for a book-keeper, and next morning forty-three answered his ad, willing to work at $25 per month.

There is plenty of room in the trades for honest, industrious, skilled men. I have often found it difficult to find a man sufficiently educated and skilled as a workman toffake a set of architect's drawings and with proper intelligence successfully complete the work.

Surely here is a field which young men can find room in which they can become much more independent and receive better salaries than to crowd the professions and counters, which in the majority of the trades.

The case may have been thoroughly conscientious, but it was dismissed with a promptacient of a majorarable comment. The story was gathered from Mr. Taliaferro in Judge Landrum's office.

"I was riding in the car with my wife," said that gentleman, and near me sat a lady dressed in black. With her were several little children of about the same size, and a baby. I don't know yet whose children they are, but it struck me that she must be a matron, or something like that, and the children were orphans. Noticing the haby, I turned to the lady and asked: "Is this little fellow an orphan, madam?" She said nothing in reply, so I thought of course that the was deef to all phan, madam?" She said nothing in reply, so I thought, of course, that she was deaf, and said no more to her. A few moments afterward the lady arose with the baby, in her arms, the car going rapidly, and started to ring the bell. I rung it for her, but she seemed to be vexed about something, and as she started out, she met that idot Hunter, and spoke to him, pointing to me. He teld me that I would have to go to the stationhouse with him, and would give no explanation. The lady seemed to have misunderstood me somehow or other, and asked if the lady with me was my wife. She was told 'yes,' and said to this policemen: "It was a mistake, I think. Please let him go." But no didn't pay any attention to her, and I was forced to leave my wife and go through the streets as a part of a circus for a hundred people. The policeman seemed to enjoy it, and that was the most disagreeable part of the whole thing. He didn't seem to do it as a duty, but as a sort of pasward the lady arose with the baby, in her

J. D. MAUND,

Never was a grander mistake made, even by a deputy collector. The soft impeachment is sternly denied. The heroes of the battle of New Hope church leave surely forgotten the wise saw of that great warrior, Sir John Falstaff, "Discretion is the better part of valor." No mightier truth was ever uttered by that remarkable man. Falstaff was the man who Napoleon complimented at the battle of Jonesboro as "the bravest of the brave." This remark was too much for Sir John. He became perfectly restless. He at once enlisted in the revenue service and in time got to be the most daring raider of his day. (He died before the war.) It was as follows; He penetrated all by himself to the heart of Ireland in search of a still. He got lost in a deep fog, and about two o'clock in the morning he encountered twenty-five moonshiners in buckram green who fired upon him with dark lanterns. He fled and told the story to the poople. They would not believe him, so they sent out to the spot and caught two tramps playing seven up in an old still house for the beer. Then it was that Sir John woman continued groaning and crying out as it in great pain.

Officer Abbott advanced into the room while Ivy guarded the door. Feeling his way Abbott Jaid his hand upon the negro first.

"Drop that knife," said the officer, as he laid his pistol against the negro's breast.

"Don't shoot me," said the negro, sullenly,

"Pon't shoot me," said the negro, saleshy,
"I'll go."
He evidently meant to keep his word, for he made a jump towards the door, only to run into the arms of Patrolman Ivy, who held him until a match was struck.

The negro held a drawn razor in his hand, but surrendered it without saying a word. A handcuff was placed on his left wrist, and taking the other cuff in his hand, Officer Abbott started toward the door.
"I'm not goin' to the guardhouse," said the negro doggedly.

"I'll be d—d if I do!"

He didn't take long to convince the negro that he was badly mistaken, and in fifteen minutes he was behind the bars of cell No. 4.

The woman was found in the shanty at the corner of Mangum and Thompson. This is,

The woman was lying on her bed while her friend—the one who called the policeman—was fixing a plaster for the woman's eye.

"How did it happen?"

The woman on the bed did nothing but groan. Fortunately, however, the other woman was more intelligible.

"How did it happen?" she echoed. "Why Joe Waimar come roun to see Mary, that's what. I was in the other room there that's what. I was in the other room there when I heard somebody come up the steps and I went out to see who it was. It was this here Decatur street barber, Duckworth. He said he wanted to see Mary. I told him she had company. He said who, but he was drinking, and I was afraid to tell him, but he commenced cussin', and I told him it was Joe. He don't like Joe, and he just cussed and knocked at the door. Joe opened it, and Henry cut at him with a razor. They had a scuffle, and Henry run Joe off. Then he went in, locked the door, blowed out the light, and begin beatin' Mary. I tried to get in, but I couldn't, and then I run and told them policemen on Peters street."

POOR JUMBO!

Judge Anderson Dismisses One of Jumbo's Conscientious Cases. Wednesday evening Jumbo Hunter walked into police headquarters in one of his happiest fumors.

'Why is it," queried Jumbo, "that some fellows make so many cases and others never succeed in catching a man?"
"Oh, some fellows just haven't got the grit and conscience that others have," said the Testerday morning that case came before Judge Anderson.

The case may have been thoroughly conscientious, but it was dismissed with a promptness that aroused considerable comment.

The story was gathered from Mr. Taliaferro in Judge Landrum's office.

"I was riding in the car with my wife," said that gentleman, and near me sat a lady dressed.

in Judge Landrum's office.

"I was riding in the car with my wife," said that gentleman, and near me sat a lady dressed in black. With her were several little children of about the same size, and a baby. I don't know yet whose children they are, but it struck me that she must be a matron, or something like that, and the children were orphans. Noticing the baby, I turned to the lady and asked: "Is this little fellow an orphan, madam?" She said nothing in reply, so I thought, of course, that she was deaf, and said no more to her. A few moments afterward the lady arose with the baby, in her arms, the car going rapidly, and started to ring the bell. I rung it for her, but she seemed to be vexed about something, and as she started out, she met that idiot Hunter, and spoke to him, pointing to me. He told me that I would have to go to the stationhouse with him, and would give no explanation. The lady seemed to have misunderstood me somehow or other, and asked if the lady with me was my wife. She was told 'yes,' and said to this policemen: "It was a mistake, I think. Please let him go.' But he didn't pay any attention to her, and I was forced to leave my wife and go through the streets as a part of a circus for a hundred people. The policeman seemed to enjoy it, and that was the most disagreeable part of the whole thing. He didn't seem to do it as a duty, but as a sort of pastime.

"I promptly gave security for my appearmatter, however, and that ends the case for the present.

Chief Connolly is quoted as saying yesterday that hereafter Jumbo should not enter a case on the docket without first telling him (chief) the circumstances.

"Chief will get tired of that," said a patrolman, later, "for it"ll take him three or four hours a day to listen to Jumbo's cases."
And if the chief commences that programme tomorrow he'll have one case to start on, for Jumbo says Frank Cohen is doing business without a license, and that he (Jumbo) proposes to stop it.

The Martha Washington tea party of the Fortnightly club, announced for tomorrow evening, has been postponed on account of the protracted bad weather. Such widespread interest has been raised by the publication of the programme in yesterday's Constitutions, and so many persons who felt that they could not risk the muggy weather have uread a rectangle and a present and the such that they could not risk the muggy weather have uread a rectangle and a present and the such that they could not risk the muggy weather have uread a rectangle and a section of the such that they could not risk the muggy weather have uread a rectangle and the such that they could not risk the muggy weather that they are the such that the such that they are the such that th felt that they could not risk the muggy weather have urged a postponement that a delay was reluctantly agreed to. All of the ladies and gentlemen heretofore announced will participate and there will be many others. Several new features will be added. The entertainment will take place at Concordia hall on Tucsday evening, March 6th, at 8 o'clock, and will be a most royal affair.

Nerve.

The st night just a short time after the clock in the capitol tower had tolled the hour of twelve, and while the iron tongue at the courthouse was rapidly ding-donging the midnight business in order to catch up—at that awful hour when, according to Shakspeare, (who has since died) graveyards yawn, and reporters and revenue men walk the earth, and "hell (generally) breathe out contagion to this world"—a belated hackman "clad in complete steel" tramped heavily up the Constitutions at striding solemnly into the reporters' den, laid a huge manuscript upon a desk, and facing about smote upon his breastplate seven times in as many languages, and remarked in a horrible stage whisper, "My name is John Anderson." "I want blood, and if you don't put that in (pointing to the manuscript) I will gnaw you all bone by bone," stalked out.

There was a ghastly picture of a human skull and cross-bones on the back of the manuscript, and it was written in bloodred ink—evidently with a pen dipped in fresh gore.

As the city editor slowly read it, he said: The entertainment to be given by the ladies of the Fourth Presbyteran church, which was announced for Friday evening, has been p stponed until Tuesday next, when it will be given at the residence of Mr. W. S. Wall, corner Yonge and Decatur streets. All donations can be sent to his residence on Monday. Augusta. Ga., Febrnary 23.—[Special.]—President James Tobin, of the Augusta national exposition, returned from Atlanta today and speaks in the highest terms of his reception in Atlanta. He says he placed the case honestly, and as forcibly as he was able, before the Piedmont exposition directors, and he thought the general sentiment was favorable to Augusta. He reminded them of the cordial support Augusta had always given Atlanta, notably at the cotton exposition, in 1881, and said he could not bring himself to believe that the public spirit and fairness for which Atlanta is noted would allow her to push a competing exposition against Augusta on this occasion of her first attempt at a great show. He was specially pleased at the hearty co-operation of Mr. Grady and Mr. S. M. Inman, and thinks the other directors should come with them. Augusta people are all gratified at the spirit shown in Atlanta, and at the fact that Atlanta takes still another day in which to consider the matter. Canadian Catarrh Cure Co.:

Gentlemen—My wife was a great sufferer with Catarrh for over two years. She has been a little troubled ever since she was a child with the disease. About two years ago we were in Mississippi, and while there she was taken down with catarrhal fever; we had three of the best physicians we could get. They broke the fever and left her the worst case of catarrh of the head I ever saw. Her nose ran profusely, and for a year I despaired of her ever getting well. I tried several doctors and they could not cure her, and used every catarrh remedy I could hear of. I spent over 80 the past year for remedies, and all to no effect. At last it became so offensive that you could hardly remain where she was. I offered $1,000 to any doctor who would cure her (and that would have left us homeless), but I would not have cared for that if she could only be cured. We saw an advertisement in the Atlanta Constitution of "Canadian Catarrh Cure," and thought we would try it, and went to your office, when you gave my wife a small sample bottle of your remedy, and told us to come and get a large bottle when that was out. Shought the large bottle, and before she had used all of the bottle she was entirely well, and her health fully restored, and now does more work than any woman I know. She used the medicine over six months ago, and there has not been the slightest return or the disease. I hope everybody that has catarrh may find you and be cured. I am a traveling man and have told a great many of your wonderful cure. Your struly.

NEW YORK, February 23.—The stock market was again dult today, but presented a strong front, though outside of a few specialties fluctuations were entirely insignificant, being generally within a range of less than a half per cent. A great feature of the day was the strength and activity in southern stocks, buying of Richmond and West Point by insiders being very marked. Influential firms, however, were bearing that stock, but the price steadily advanced, offerings being very light. Marked advances were made in Memphis and Charleston and East Tennessee first and second preferred stocks, which were somewhat of a puzzle to the street, several explanations which do not explain being given to account for it. First prices were generally with were somewhat to a plant being given to account for it. First prices were generally from ½ to ½ per cent above the closing figures of Tuesday, and this advantage was further increased in the early trading, but the market became exemply dull and after noon settled down to utter stagnation, and prices sagged off until the last hour, when some strength was shown in St. Paul and Norfolk preferred, to which the rest of the list responded, and the market closed firm, though dull, at slight fractions better than first prices. Almost everything on the active list is higher and Memphis ahd Charleston rose 4 per cent, East Tennessee first 234, second 136, Manhattan 1 and others fractional amounts. Showing an increase of acceipts for the week same week last year.

Showing a decrease of acceipts since September 1 acceipts since September 2 acceipts and the last year. NEW YORK, February 23—C. L. Green & Co., in their reporton cotton!tutures today, say: Crumbs of comfort for either bulls or bears were few and far between today, so faras inctuations were concerned.
Liverpool advices, both public and private, indicate lessening faith in a higher range of values, while confidence in larger crop views seem to be on the nerease. Of new features there was an entire absence of anything suggestive or interesting, and without such a basis to work upon, and even room scalpers were indifferent traders, as evidenced by luctuations of 2@3 points on the day's business of 100 bales sales.

nuctuations of 2285 points of the day's business of some 91,000 bales sales.

NEW YORK, February 22.—[Special.]—From Hubbard, Price & Co., through John S. Ernest: Discourage I by the weight of receipts and the heaviness of prices, the room is growing increasingly bearish. The weak long interest keeps selling, and lines of sherts are being put out, as appearances indicate a lower range of values in consequence of the continued large movement of cotton. Liverpool advises a decline of 1-64d from Monday's price. Our cables say that the bears hoped to influence New York by the decline, and that there is a large short interest which, if receipts fall off, might lead to a reaction. Much stress is laid upon the decrease of receipts, and its probable effect, showing that this is the principal element which will affect the foreign markets pending some such strengthening fact. Our market remains bearish, and operators are averse to purchasts while the tendency is so marked. The decline at the opening was from 263 points, and the fluctuations after the first call were slight. New Orleans receipts tomorrow are estimated at 4,000 beles.

NEW ORLEANS, February 23.—[Special.]—
Liverpool which yesterday declined 1-64, was slightly lower and closing here, and New York is about three points under Monday. The market seems to have declined this morning, partly on estimates of duced to from 26,000 to 27,000 bales, or about 2,000 greater than this week last year. The loss in port receipts so far this week is 26,000 bales, as compared with last year, while the stocks at all ports today are 3,000 bales less than a year ago. The estimates for this port next week are about 20,000 bales, and for all ports fifty to sixty thousand bales. We look for smaller interior movement, proportionate to the decrease to the ports. A prominent New York house writes us under date of the 18th instant: "The apathy shown towards cotton just now is simply astonishing. We are shaping for a course which must soon produce a great revulsion. Today we have four cables, reporting strong and active Manchester market; good foundation certainly for a buil campaigu, but how much more so when the short supplies are considered."

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.
CHICAGO, February 23—[Special.]—The markets on 'change started in fairly active today with prices weak, and tending downward. The greatest depresweak and tending downward. The greatest depression in the 11s occurred before 11a. m., when May pork sold at $18.90, lard 7.82%, wheat 79% and corn 50%. At noon there was a slight reaction with pork $11.00, wheat 50% c and corn 50%. The lowest point touched, compared with Tuesday's closing, showed pork 22%, wheat 1/2% and corn 1c lower. There was general duliness after the first hour of trading. In wheat the depression was caused by mild weather and the selling of quite a lot of long wheat, and the reaction by the purchase of nearly a million bushels by a single house.

Corn was also affected by mild weather, which was freely used as a bear argument. Receipts, too, were fairly large, and are expected to be still larger tomorrow.

Oats were easier, influenced largely by the weakness of the other markets.

Frovisions were moderately active early, but later in the day became dull. The same bear party who have been hammering the market for severallweeks have been hammering the market for severall weeks resumed their usual tactics, and sold produce more able to take it. A weak and unsettled feeling developed, and prices on all speculative articles ranged lower; and, although inside figures were not maintained at the close, the last sale was at a decline of 7½c on pork, 5677½c on lard and 7½c on short ribs from the closing sales on Tuesday. May pork opened at $14.05, advanced to $44.47½, broke to $13.90, ralled and closed at $1.40°. May lard sold at 7.82½ and closed at 7.82½ and closed at 7.35½ and closed at 7.35½ and closed at 7.35½. The following was the range in the leading futures

A RARE TREAT.

Mr. J. W. Scott's Lecture on the Late Sidney Lanier.

pplemented by Illustrative Readings From His Works by Rev. William Morrison and Mr. John H. Seals.

Despite the inclement weather, last night, a very good audience filled the basement of the First Methodist church to enjoy the lecture of the Rev. W. J. Scott and the illustrative readings by Rev. Dr. Morrison and Mr. John H. Those who were so fortunate as to be present enjoyed one of the rarest treats which has ever been given to a cultured auditory.

The entertainment opened about half past eight o'clock, and lasted about two hours. It was thoroughly enjoyed throughout, and to speak truth the cultivated assemblage were really sorry that it was so short. Dr. Scott's elected as his there. "An Evenine With the selected as his theme, "An Evening With the oets," and he handled it in the most classic, ining and instructive manner. He has a very pleasant and impressive delivery, and speaks without notes in a perfectly easy, natural and elegant style which is truly capti-

The chief subject of the lecture is the life and poetry of the late Sidney Lanier. The lecture opened with a brief biographical sketch of Mr. Lanier, every word of which was interesting. The first interview which Doctor Scott ever held with the poet was described in detail. He met him in 1867 at Montgomery, Ala. Doctor Scott was at that time the editor of Scott's Magazine. Mr. Lanier was quite a young man at that time, very poor and entirely unknown to fame. He had heard of the kindness of Dr. Scott in encouraging young writers, and in a most modest manner expressed a willingness to write for Scott's Magazine. He submitted to Dr. Scott several productions of his pen, and the eminent critic, on examining lingness to write for Scott's Magazine. He submitted to Dr. Scott several productions of his pen, and the eminent critic, on examining them, saw at once that Mr. Lanier was a most remarkable man. This interview led to the appearance in Scott's Magazine of a number of Mr. Lanier's earlier productions, both in poetry and prose. Bits of the biographical sketch are here given. "Lanier," said the speaker, "was not only a most remarkable man as a writer, both of prose and poetry, but he was the most wonderful flute player who ever lived in America. He was master of many instruments, but as a flute player he was simply marvellous. He was a natural flute player, and even while at Oxford his wonderful gift showed itself in great perfection. It was the custom of Lanier to climb up into an old belfry on the college grounds on fection. It was the custom of Lanier to climb up into an old belry on the college grounds on pleasant nights, and from his perch he would charm the country side with his magical playing on the flute."

"It really seems," said the speaker, "that in many instances men of genius must die in order to be appreciated, or perhaps the greatest honors which were eyer paid Sidney Lanier were heaped upon him after he had passed away. For a long time he did not realize enough money from his writings for the support of himself or his lovely wife—and but for his rare musical talent it would have indeed been quite difficult for him to have made a livelihood."

"Lanier was a prodigy while at college. I livelihood."

"Lanier was a prodigy while at college. I have been told by one of his classmates that he wrote Greek and Latin verses, while in college with far greater ease than most poets could write English verse. He was also master of German at an early age. He graduated before he was eighteen years of age.

"He spent only two years at college, and became such an admirable scholar that upon graduating he was at once given a professorship in Oglethorpe college, near Milledgeville, where he was associated with some of the most distinguished and learned men of the day. He served two years in the late war, and was afterward transferred to the signal service."

Doctor Scott gave a very fine analysis of Sidney Lanier as a poet. It was always Lanier's ney Lanier as a poet. It was always Lanier's idea that a poet should know everything, and Doctor Scott showed first that he was a man of multifarious learning and knowledge. He idea that a poet should know everything, and Doctor Scott showed first that he was a man of multifarious learning and knowledge. He knew something about everything, was a most accomplished scholar, and a deep student of pature in all of her phases.

He was, in the second place, a perfect master of the science of versification—a greater master of this science, indeed, than either Dryden, or Pope, or Tennyson, and his little work on the subject is the most excellent book of the kind which has ever been written. It will be the reference book on this subject for an hundred years to come.

His versatility was amazing, and all that he did he did equally well. In proof of this Dr. Scott said that the audience would now be entertained with some illustrative readings from the works of Sidney Lanier by Mr. John H. Seals and Rev. Dr. Morrison.

Mr. Seals read "The Song of the Chattahoochee," a most beautiful poem, and he read it remarkably well, holding the charmed attention of the audience, and calling forth pro-remarkably well, holding the charmed atten-tion of the audience, and calling forth propounced applause.

Doctor Morrison then read a poem of an en-tirely different kind, the splendid and quaint humorous poem, entitled "There's More in the Man than there is in the Land." Although Mr. Morrison stated that it was entirely out of his line to read simply to be heard; that he was not only not a professional reader, but not even an amateur reader, he read this poem in a most effective manner, with a keen appreciation of its many fine points, and was rewarded with much laughter and applause. Doctor Scott then went on to show that the distinctive feature of Sidney Lanier as a poet was his lofty idealism. In demonstrating this he took occasion to deal the Byronic school of realism some hard licks and stated that it had been "a shame and blight upon the "literature of this age. Algernon Swinburne, he said, belonged to this school, also, Walter Whitman whom he was sorry to observe that the culture of Boston are inclined to place upon a higher pedestal than . Morrison stated that it was entirely out of observe that the culture of Boston are inclined to place upon a higher pedestal than the pure, idealistic John Greeieat Whittier, and the great and good Henry W. Longfellow. Once more the valuable aid of Doctor Morrison was invoked, and he read with deep feeling and beauty the exquisite idealistic poem of Sidney Lanier, entitled "The Marshes of Glynn." Dr. Scott said that as an ode, this piece had never been surpassed. In conclusion, Dr. Scott showed that the crowning excellence of Sidney Lanier was the religious element, the spiritual tone which pervades excepthing which he has written. Like Walter Scott, he had not written a line which dying he could wish to blot. In illustration of this truth, Mr. John H. Seals read in a charming way the poem, entitled, "Crystal," which ing way the poem, entitled, "Crystal," which is one of the gems of Lanier.

It was announced that Doctor Scott will lecture again in about a week, when he will take up the works of Doctor F. H. Tichnor. These lectures are extremely entertaining and instructive, and it is safe to say that they will be liberally patronized by the culture and intelligence of the city.

The famous elecutionist, Mrs. Bessle Oton, was in the audience, and was one of the most celighted and appreciative listeners present.

NO DECISION VET.

The Exposition Directors Will Hold an Important Meeting Today.

No decision has as yet been reached by the directors of the Piedmont exposition upon Augusta's proposition to alternate expositions with Atlanta.

A meeting of the directors was a second or the directors with the directors with the directors was a second or the directors.

with Atlanta.

A meeting of the directors was called for yesterday afternoon, but the attendance was not large and no definite action was taken,

Another meeting has been called for 4 o'clock this afternoon. The questions to be discussed are of vital importance, and the presence of every member of the board is desired. A good deal of interest is felt by the community at large in this proposition to alternate the Atlanta and Augusta expositions, and the action of the board will be awaited with interest.

An Unavoidable Accident.

It appears that the death of the colored boy, Sam Turner, was due to an unavoidable accident, which was most unfortunate, but which was not due to the negligence of any one. The driver of the dairy wagon, Mr. Clay, is a careful man, and when he found that he could not control the ponies, he told the boy to jump, as he did. The boy did not do so and the wagon was overturned, inflicting fatal injuries. Mr. Clay lost control of the ponies by one of them catching the bridle in his tongue and jerking it off. The boy was not engaged to drive the wagon, but merely to ride with the driver to deliver milk.

A RARE TREAT

Mr. J. W. Scott's Lecture on the Late Sidney Lanier.

pplemented by Illustrative Readings From His Works by Rev. William Morrison and Mr. John H. Seals.

Despite the inclement weather, last night, a very good audience filled the basement of the First Methodist church to enjoy the lecture of the Rev. W. J. Scott and the illustrative read-enjoyed one of the rarest treats which has ever been given to a cultured auditory.

The entertainment opened about half past eight o'clock, and lasted about two hours. It was thoroughly enjoyed throughout, and to speak truth the cultivated assemblage were really sorry that it was so short. Dr. Scott selected as his theme, "An Evening With the oets," and he handled it in the most classic, entertaining and instructive manner. He has a very pleasant and impressive delivery, and speaks without notes in a perfectly easy, nat-ural and elegant style which is truly eaptivating.

The chief subject of the lecture is the life and poetry of the late Sidney Lanier. The lecture opened with a brief biographical sketch of Mr. Lanier, every word of which was interesting. The first interview which Doctor Scott ever heid with the poet was described in detail. He met him in 1867 at Montgomery, Ala. Doctor Scott was at that time the editor of Scott's Magazine. Mr. Lanier was quite a young man at that time, very poor and entirely unknown to fame. He had heard of the kindness of Dr. Scott in encouraging young writers, and in a most modest manner expressed a willingness to write for Scott's Magazine. He submitted to Dr. Scott several productions of his pen, and the eminent critic, on examining submitted to Dr. Scott several productions of his pen, and the eminent critic, on examining them, saw at once that Mr. Lanier was a most remarkable man. This interview led to the appearance in Scott's Magazine of a number of Mr. Lanier's earlier productions, both in poetry and prose. Bits of the biographical sketch are here given. "Lanier," said the speaker, "was not only a most remarkable man as a writer, both of prose and poetry, but he was the most wonderful flute player who ever lived in America. He was master of many instruments, but as a flute player he was simply marvellous. He was a natural flute player, and even while at Oxford his wonderful gift showed itself in great perfection. It was the custom of Lanier to climb up into an old belfry on the college grounds on pleasant nights, and from his perch he would charm the country side with his magical playing on the flute."

"It really seems," said the speaker, "that in ing on the flute."

"It really seems," said the speaker, "that in many instances men of genius must die in order to be appreciated, or perhaps the greatest honors which were ever paid Sidney Lanier were heaped upon him after he had passed away. For a long time he did not realize enough money from his writings for the support of himself or his lovely wife—and but for his rare musical talent it would have indeed been quite difficult for him to have made a livelihood."

his rare musical talent it would have indeed been quite difficult for him to have made a livelihood."

"Lanier was a prodigy while at college. I have been told by one of his classmates that he wrote Greek and Latin verses while in college with far greater ease than most poets could write English verse. He was also master of German at an early age. He graduated before he was eighteen years of age.

"He spent only two years at college, and became such an admirable scholar that upon graduating he was at once given a professorship in Oglethorpe college, near Milledgeville, where he was associated with some of the most distinguished and learned men of the day. He served two years in the late war, and was afterward transferred to the signal service."

Doctor Scott gave a very fine analysis of Sidney Lanier as a poet. It was always Lanier's idea that a poet should know everything, and Doctor Scott showed first that he was a man of multifarious learning and knowledge. He knew something about everything, was a most accomplished scholar, and a deep student of pature in all of her phases.

He was, in the second place, a perfect master of the science of versification—a greater master of this science, indeed, than either Dryden, or Pope, or Tennyson, and his little work on the subject is the most excellent book of the kind which has ever been written. It will be the reference book on this subject for an hundred years to come.

His versatility was amazing, and all that he did he did equally well. In proof of this Dr. Scott said that the audience would now be entertained with some illustrative readings from the works of Sidney Lanier by Mr. John H. Seals and Rev. Dr. Morrison.

Mr. Seals read "The Song of the Chattaloochee," a most beautiful poem, and he read it remarkably well, holding the charmed attention of the audience, and calling forth pronounced applause.

Doctor Morrison then read a poem of an entitled side search.

remarkably well, holding the charmed attention of the audience, and calling forth propounced applause.

Doctor Morrison then read a poem of an entirely different kind, the splendid and quaint humorous poem, entitled "There's More in the Man than there is in the Land." Although Mr. Morrison stated that it was entirely out of his line to read simply to be heard; that he was not only not a professional reader, but not even an amateur reader, he read this poem in a most effective manner, with a keen appreciation of its many fine points, and was rewarded with much laughter and applause. Doctor Scott then went on to show that the distinctive feature of Sidney Lanier as a poet was his lofty idealism. In demonstrating this he took occasion to deal the Byronic school of realism some hard licks and stated that it had been "a shame and blight upon the "literature of this age. Algernon Swinburne, he said, belonged to this school, also, Walter Whitman whom he was sorry to observe that the culture of Boston are inclined to place upon a higher pedestal than the pure, idealistic John Greeieat Whittier, and the great and good Henry W. Longfellow. Once more the valuable aid of Doctor Morrison was invoked, and he read with deep feeling and beauty the exquisite idealistic poem of Sidney Lanier, entitled "The Marshes of Glynn." Dr. Scott said that as an ode, this piece had never been surpassed. In conclusion, Dr. Scott showed that the crowning excellence of Sidney Lanier, entitled "The Marshes of Glynn." Dr. Scott said that as an ode, this piece had never been surpassed. In conclusion, Dr. Scott showed that the crowning excellence of Sidney Lanier, entitled "Crystal," which is piece had never been surpassed. In conclusion, Dr. Scott showed that the crowning excellence of Sidney Lanier, entitled "Crystal," which is one of the gens of Lanier.

It was announced that Doctor Scott will lecture again in about a week, when he will take up the works of Doctor F. H. Tichnor. These lectures are extremely entertaining and instructive, and it with Atlanta.

A meeting of the directors was called for yesterday afternoon, but the attendance was not large and no definite action was taken,

Another meeting has been called for 4 o'clock this afternoon. The questions to be discussed are of vital importance, and the presence of every member of the board is desired. A good deal of interest is felt by the community at large in this proposition to alternate the Atlanta and Augusta expositions, and the action of the board will be awaited with interest.

An Unavoidable Accident.

It appears that the death of the colored boy, Sam Turner, was due to an unavoidable accident, which was most unfortunate, but which was not due to the negligence of any one. The driver of the dairy wagon, Mr. Clay, is a careful man, and when he found that he could not control the ponies, he told the boy to jump, as he did. The boy did not do so and the wagon was overturned, inflicting fatal injuries. Mr. Clay lost control of the ponies by one of them catching the bridle in his tongue and jerking it off. The boy was not engaged to drive the wagon, but merely to ride with the driver to deliver milk.

The sale will come off under the auspices of the Georgia Jersey Breeder's association and about fifty-five registered Jeyseys will be knocked down to the highest bidders.

The stable will be placed in admirable order for this sale. The horses will be removed and excellent seats will be arranged. Ample accommodations will be provided for the ladies, and it is expected that they will be out in full force to enjoy the proceedings and take part in the bidding.

cidental Discharge of His Gun. Yesterday was a holiday for the school boys, and a number of them, consisting of Charlie and John Bedford, sons of Detective Bedford, Dave Irby and Jack Pharr, took advantage of the spare minutes to go bird hunting yesterday.

the spare minutes to go show town, the party day.

About a mile or so from town, the party stopped to wait for birds, and young Pharr placed the muzzle of his gun upon his left foot, and carlessly slipped his hand over the trigger. The gun was discharged, and the load mangled a couple of toes on the left foot.

A wagon was secured and the young fellow carried to his home on Rock street, where his wounds were dressed.

The wound is a painful, though nor a serious one, and it is not thought that an amputation will be necessary.

POSTPONEMENT NECESSARY.

Arrangements for the Visit of Sir Thom Henry Gratton Esmonde.

A number of gentlemen interested in the question of Irish home rule met in the basement of the church of the Immaculate Conception last night to make arrangements for the contemplated visit and lecture of Sir Thomas Henry Gratton Esmonde, Bart., the eminent Irish statesman.

Captain J. F. Burke presided at last night's meeting.

Captain J. F. Burke presided at last hight's meeting.

It was originally expected that the great home ruler would reach Atlanta on the 29th instant, but this progamme may be changed owing to the fact that it will be impossible to obtain the opera house on that night. Sir Thomas is to visit Augusta, Savannah, Jacksonville and Atlanta, and it is now proposed to have him delay his visit to Atlanta until after he has been to Jacksonville. The only action taken at last night's meeting was to decide that a postponement was advisable. If Sir Thomas can arrange his visits to southern cities so that Atlanta will come after Jacksonville, arrangements to that effect will at once be made.

THE CONFEDERATE DEAD.

A Monument to be Erected to Them at

A reporter of THE CONSTITUTION showed Comptroller-General Wright the special in yesterday's paper from Madison having refer-ence to the erection of a monument to the con-federate dead at Madison, and the Confederate Survivors' association of Morgan county. He said:

Survivors' association of Morgan county. He said:

"That is an excellent idea. The people of Morgan county are among the most patriotic in the south, and I am not surprised to see that they are moving in this matter. That monument ought to be reared. There are a number of confederate soldiers buried in Morgan county—soldiers who were wounded in the battles around Atlanta, and died in hospitals at Madison. They gave up their lives in the defense of Atlanta, and the movement to get contributions in this city for the monument should be encouraged. The people of Atlanta are liberal and patriotic, and, I doubt not, will respond generously to the appeal of the Confederate Survivors' association of Morgan county."

Reception to Young Men.

The young men of Atlanta, living near Payne's chapel and attending there, are cordially invited to a reception for them at the chapel given by the Young People's society of Christian en deavor. This is a prosperous society under the presidency of J. R. Owens, and the reception this (Friday) evening will be very interesting. Last Wednesday night a missionary concert under the management of Mrs. Witter and Miss Jessie White was greatly enjoyed. The songs and recitations about mis-ions were very well given by the children. The pastor is giving a series of sermons on business to young men and ladies on each Sunday night. Let all young gentlemen attend the reception tonight.

The P.Nai Brith orphan asylum, representing the charity and liberality of the Jews of several states, at a cost of many thousand of dollars, is located on Washington street, a very-short distance from these lots, and the contract has already been let for the erection of a handsome building that will greatly enhance the value of property in this vicinity. Georgia avenue is being opened as a great wide boulevard from West End, crossing the southern portion of the city to Grant park. The Atlanta Land and Improvement company, with remarkable enterprise and judgment, are purchasing, grading and otherwise improving tract after tract on this side and have already built many beautiful homes on their property. THE CECILIA FOUR.

The Quartette Makes Its Bow to the Atlanta Public.

Most Enjoyable Concert at DeGive's-Atlanta's Leading Musicians as Enter rs-Enthusiastic Andience.

The first appearance of the Cecilia quartette was made last night at DeGive's before an audience, whilst not large, representing the musical culture of Atlanta. From first to last, the audience showed the keenest enjoyment and kept up an unusual amount of en-

Musical audiences here are ordinarily not musical andences here are ordinary not enthusiastic, but last night everybody seemed to catch the inspiration of the truly artistic work presented, and interest never once lagged.

It is safe to say that no concert ever given in this city was more thoroughly chaste, elegant, artistic or refined.

gant, artistic or refined.

It was one of those captivating occasions, where every one felt with his neighbor that the hour was being most happily spent; that every performer was an artist, and that the music was being most charmingly rendered. A pretty sentiment from Jean Paul had been printed at the head of the programme, and this seemed to catch every one as the odor of a rose in one's hand. It was as follows:

"O Music! Thou who bringest the receding waves of eternity nearer to the wenty heart of man as he stands upon the shore and longs to cross! Art thou the evening breeze of this life or the morning air of the figure one."

the evening breeze of this life or the morning air of the future one?"

The Cecilias have reason to be proud of their first reception. Their voices were all in good tone, and they sang their numbers with rare grace and expression. On the programme they were down for five numbers, but the applause would not end until they had sung nine, besides getting other encores, to which they did not respond. Being the special attraction of the evening, they have nothing to regret that they received so much attention. Without going into a waste of words over their beautiful singing, it is enough to say that they merited all of the showers of applause, flowers and compliments which were so lavishly bestowed. Mrs. Annie Simon-Werner, Mrs. Mary Turner-Salter, Mrs. Ida Kendrick-Smith and Mrs. Constantin Sternberg compose the quartette, and they are too well known here to make distinctions as to the quality or merit of their individual work, unless, perhaps, it be said that Mrs. Sternberg's wonderfully deep and round voice seemed to attract unusual attention because of its rare lower register. The next appearance of the Cecilias will undoubtedly demand a large attendance.

Mr. Salter, in his solo, "Out On the Deep," next appearance of the Cecilias will undoubtedly demand a large attendance.

Mr. Salter, in his solo, "Out On the Deep," showed his rich baritone to fine advantage, as he always does. Mr. Natorp Blumenfeld, who has been heard in Atlanta only once before, created a genuine sensation by his exquisite violin playing. That he is a virtuoso of marked promise and ability, no one can question who heard him last night. He played two numbers, "Romanze," Nicode, and "Auditina, (2d coucerto,) DeBeriot, and received no less than five encores altogether. He responded with a "Caratina," Raff, and one other. Mr. Blumenfield is a popular favorite as an artist, from last night before any Atlanta audience.

Mr. Constantine Sternberg has been heard Mr. Constantine Sternberg has been heard often enough in Atlanta to make extended mention of his work unnecessary. He is a pianist possessing every essential to the highest class of playing, and never did he appear to stronger advantage than last evening. He received what he merited, the warmest possible tribute—a storm of applause, and the complete sympathetic interest of his audience. Perhaps his strongest piece was the "Fanst waltz" Gounod-Liszt, but all were most beautifully played.

Gound-Liszt, but all were most beautifully played.

The "Quartette in canon form," by Mrs. Salter, Mrs. Smith, Mr. Salter and Mr. Smith, was one of the good things of the evening. They sang "Ecco quel fier stante"—Costa. Mr. Smith's fine tener showed to splendid advantage in this selection, and his Atlanta admirers gave full vent to their appreciation. The quartette responded to an encore.

This completes the programme, but not in detail. It would require a much more extended notice to do full justice to the concert. It was a gent throughout, and never was anything in Atlanta more intensely enjoyed. Following is the programme: lowing is the programme:

This evening the Charles L. Andrews's Minuet Carnival company begin an engagement of two nights and one matthce, producing the well known and popular drams, "Michael Strogoff" with all its wealth of scenery and rich costumes.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat of February 13th, says:
"Michael Strogoff" was presented at the St. Charler theater last night by/Charles L. Andrew's Minuet Carmyat company to a large and thoroughly good-natured audience. The play is well known to theater-goers here, so that a synopsis of its story, at this time, is unnecessary. The performance last evening appeared to give complete satisfaction to the audience, who signified their appreciation in frequent rounds of applause and much laughter. The aerial posturing of the Shattuck Brothers might be mentioned as especially entitled to commendation, as also the prize march of minuets led by Olga Stanley.

Milton Nobles.

Next Monday evening this popular actor and the charming Dollie Nobles will present his new play, "From Sire to Son." Everybody knows how excellent these two stars are and how they have succeeded to this day in pleasing the American public. In this new drama they are said to surpais all previous presentations. The San Francisco News thus noticed this new production:
"The time has passed for turning up the critical mese at Milton Nobles and his plays. A good whole-some play like "From Sire to Son." is preferable to pretentious failures in more lofty styles, of which the San Francisco public have seen two or three times this season. And we confess to harring spent an evening at the Alcazar this week with genuine enjoyment, The first two acts "From Sire to Son." are laid in the viliage and mining camp of of Yuba, California, in 1860, and have strong local color; the third in Venice, and the fourth in an old castle on the Rhine. Milton Nobles personates a reformed sambler, of course at heart a noble fellow: Dollie Nobles, in a very charming way personates his wife in the first act, and his daughter in the third and fourth. "" Mr. Nobles has by no means monopolized the effective situations, but has given plenty of capital business to his principal associates. The story can hardly be told within our limits, but is yitally interesting, the title of the play being derived from an inherited tendency in the hero to attacks of speechlessness, which figure in the first and second acts."

MARRIED WOMEN MAY TEACH,

If They Can Secure the Votes of Thirteen Members of the School Board.

Members of the School Board.

The board of education met in Superintendent Slaton's office yesterday evening, with fitteen of the nineteen members present, President Hemphill in the chair.

Mr. W. S. Thomson, from the committee cn school property, reported the purchase of the Beermann lot in the fourth ward, and the committee on buildings was instructed to go ahead with the new school building.

Mr. Hoke Smith, from the committee on teachers, reported in favor of modifying the rule in regard to the employment of married women as teachers. He also asked that certain large payments of tuition money be investigated.

The latter subject was satisfactorily explained by Superintendent Slaton.

Mr. Bray, from the committee on rules, reported one permitting the election of married women by a two-thirds voic of a quorum present. He argued eloquently in favor of the employment of married women, when circumstances justified such employment.

Mr. P. J. Moran opposed the rule as reported, and moved to amend by requiring a two-thirds vote of the entire board, or thirteen votes in order to elect married women.

Mr. Glenn supported the amendment.

Judge W. R. Hammond opposed, the amendment as rendering the election of married women almost impossible.

The debate became quite animated, Mr. Mayer, Dr. Hoach and Mr. Lowry opposing the throwing down of the fences.

Mr. Moran supported his amendment by stating that it was not desirable to make the rule so full that married women would be invited to become candidates Adiscriminately. He recognized the fact that now and then there might be a married woman with some special aptitude whose services the board might wish to secure. When such a woman presented herself she would always secure thirteen votes. The board should simply reserve to itself the power of electing a married woman when one with such commanding ability was found, but should not open the gate to a regiment of candidates.

The amendment was put and carried by a majority of one, and the rule, as amended, was then adopted

The vote stood a tie, which President Hemphill decided by voting for the amennment, and the rule, as thus amended, was again carried, and thus married women, if they can secure thirteen votes, may be elected teachers in the public schools.

the public schools.

Mr. Smith then moved, and Mr. Moran seconded, the nomination of Mrs. Rosa Floyd, the wife of Professor Floyd, for the post of supernumerary in the girls' high school. Mrs. Floyd received the unanimous vote, which being more than the necessary thirteen, made her the first lady elected under the rule.

Miss Bagley, supernumerary in Crew street school, was transferred to Walker street school, on motion of Mr. Moran.

After discussing several financial questions, the board adjourned.

THINGS ABOUT TOWN.

The board of aldermen met in regular session yesterday morning. The action of the general council in authorizing the paving of a number of streets, as heretofore mentioned in these columns, was under discussion, and this action was concurred in except in respect to Thompson street. This street was left until the next meeting.

Conductor Taylor Terrell, of the W. and A. passenger train No. 20, which reached Atlanta at 6:40 yesterday morning, met with a serious accident when nearing Gilmore station. While Captain Terrell was looking out to see whether a passing freight train was flagging, he was struck by the open door of a refrigerator car and was knocked to the ground. He escaped with some ugly cuts about the face and head. Dr. Fisher, of Bolton, dressed the wounds and the injured man was taken to his home at Smyrna.

A Card From Mr. J. S. Lester.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: I see in your issue of today a statement that the M. A. B.s, on Wednesday night night, discussed the names of Walter R. Brawn and J. S. Lester for police commissioners. Allow me to sate that while I was the originator of that organization, it was built as a campaign committee, for the, purpose of killing prohibition, and not to become a new and higher branch of the city government, that would or could dictate to the mayor and general council who they should, or should not elect to fill subordinate positions in the city government. I was not at the meeting you refer to. Neither was any one suthorized, directly or indirectly, to use my name as a candidate. But on the contrart, if I had a vote in the election I would certainly cast it for John Stephens and Walter R. Brown. Some one has imposed on your seporter in reference to me, and I believe it was with malicious intent and for future use by a small faction. Yours truly,

TALKING FOR MONEY

To Improve Savannah River and Harbor.

MAJOR BARNES AND THE COMMITTEE.

Atlanta's Public Building Extens Georgians Before the Court of Washington, February 24.—[Special.]— Major Barnes and Mr. Walsh appeared before the committee on rivers and harbors today, and the committee on rivers and harous today, and besides speaking in favor of an appropriation for the improvement of the Savannah river, presented a memorial, gotten up in excellent etyle and containing nearly a hundred pages of matter, from the Savannah river conven-tion, which met in Augusta on the 25th and 26th of January. The memorial contains a large map of Georgia and South Carolina, with ense circle around Augusta, the center of gravitation, which circle, however, Atlanta, Macon and Savannah were not allowed to enter, although they are represented by small dots immediately outside. It is a good map and shows Augusta to be what she really is one of the most important of southern cities. The memorial then cites the fact that exclusive of tide water, the Savannah river constitutes one-third of the river navigation of the Atlantic states. The committee were not only deeply impressed with the remarks of Major Barnes and Mr Walsh, but were surprised to know Georgia had such an important river.

THE APPROPRIATION FOR THE SAVANNAH. Major Barnes tonight feels more confident than ever that he will get a large appropria-tion for the further improvement of the Savan-

Mr. Carlton and Judge Cothran, of South Carolina, also appeared before the same committee in the interest of the upper Savannah and were promised an appropriation of $10,000 for a re-survey of the stream between Augusta and Andersonville, S. C.

Mr. Blount sustained a defeat, and a deserved one, by his own postoffice committee today, in that they decided to make an adverse report on his bill to prevent newspapers containing lottery advertisements from circulation n the mails. However, Mr. Blount and five others of the committee will make a minority report favorable to the bill. Mr. Blount, in discussing the matter after the committee's decision, said that if one of the members had not been absent there would have standing the fact that his committee in the house if it ever came to a vote. It is true there are many supporters of the bill in the house, but Mr. Blount will hardly be able to scrape up enough votes to succeed. JUDGE STEWART'S BILL.

Mr. Norwood's bill for the protection of submarine cables was unanimously passed by the house today. Judge Stewart is very much interested in his bill to allow minors and southern people who were loyal to go before the court of claims and establish their right to captured property, and today he has made an examination of all reports of the court of claims. He finds that over 22,000 claims have been presented from Georgia since the war, claiming nearly thirty million dollars. Over 1,500 of these claims were considered, but only between two and three hundred thousand dollars of the amount was decided as representing legal claims. Over five thousand claims are now on hand and not examined, the court of claims holding that the time for taking testimony had expired by law in 1880, and therefore, did not adjudicate them. If Judge Stewart's bill passes, these five thousand Georgia claims will yet be considered. His object is to make the issue that the repub licans cannot hold that minors were di The sub-committee on public buildings have requested Judge Stewart to write for them a favorable report on the appropriation for the improvement of Atlanta's public building. He is now preparing it and as soon as completed row or Monday. Mr. Blount introduced a bill today to pay to Judge Crisp introduced a petition and affidavit supporting the bill of Mary C. Forrester and A. B. Duncan, of Lee county, for $7,900 for property confiscated by Colonel Howard of the Freedman's bureau.

Mr. Cullom offered a resolution, (which was adopted), requesting the president to inform the senate whether the French government has prohibited the importation into France of American products; what steps, if any, have been taken by the government of the United States to procure the rescinding of such prohibition; whether any correspondence between the two governments had taken place prior to the president's message of the 12th of January last, recommending the acceptance of the invitation of the Freuch government to participate in the international exposition in Paris in 1889, and if so, the substance of such correspondence.

Mr. Beck suggested that the resolution be extended so as to refer to Germany and Portugal, which had also prohibited certain American products; but Mr. Cullom preferred to confine it to France.

Mr. Butler offered a resolution (which was agreed to) calling on the postmaster general for an explanation of the reasons why certain public documents mailed by him were returned with the information that they had been held for postage. It seemed from Mr. Butler's statement that the excuse was that the books did not bear the indorsement "public documents, free."
